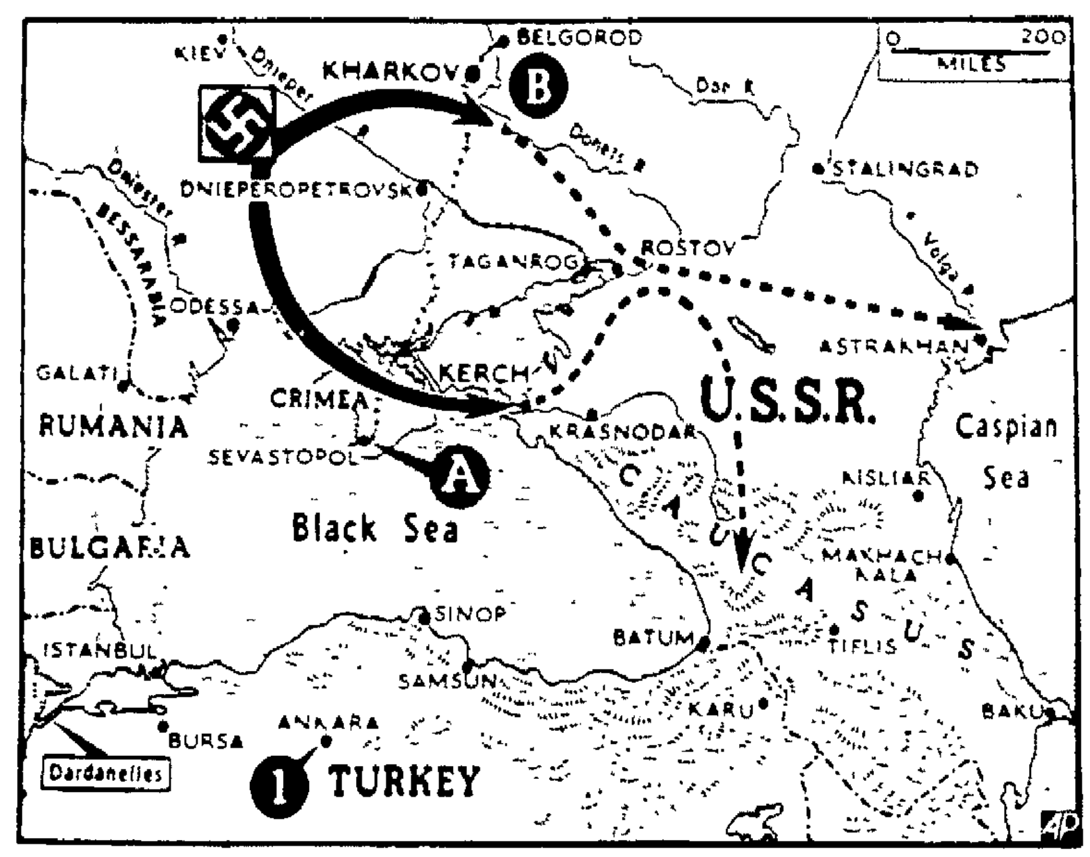
SOVIET REPORTS ARMY HOLDING GROUND ON TWO FRONTS



Huge axis forces, outnumbering Russians in some instances as much as five or six to one, slashed at the 15-mile deep defenses of Sevastopol (A) on all sides in the first general offensive against the Crimean port since last December, but Soviets reported their army holding ground. The Germans were said to have driven wedges in Red army lines at some points on the Kharkov (B) front by repeated onslaughts but the general advance was reported checked. Dotted arrows indicate how Germans hope to apply a pincer to Rostov, and from there strike at ports of Astrakhan and Batum. Solid arrows show where main Nazi armies are now trying to strike eastward. A Reuters correspondent reported seeing three U. S bombers at Ankara (1), Turkish capital.

BATTLE RAGING ON DESERT NEAR TOBRUK

British Adjust Positions. Attack Axis Wedge.

By The Associated Press

CAIRO, Egypt, June 15 — A fluid battle raged on the desert approaches to Tobruk today as the British sought to adjust their positions while from the rear they violently attacked the axis Columns of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel which were nudging a wedge toward the coast.

The British said the Germans were attacking near Acroma in an effort to reach the coast and "isolate the troops remaining in the Ain El Gazala salient," the coastal anchor of the former line of minefields 40 miles west of Tobruk.

Already the southern anchor at Bir Bacheim has been wiped out.

The British indicated a threat to another of their fortified boxes at El Adem, south of Tobruk, had been eased by clearing the enemy out of the area to the east of that point.

"Heavy fighting continues," the communique said, indicating that despite the counter thrusts of Lieut. Gen Neil M Ritchie's forces, the Germans were still pressing strongly."

"The enemy is attacking our positions near Acroma in an attempt to isolate the troops remaining in the Ain El Gazala salient."

Ain El Gazala is nearly 40 miles west of Tobruk.

CHINESE STRIKE AT JAPANESE-HELD CITY

By The Associated Press

CHUNGKING, June 15—Striking at the western base of Japan's Kiangsi-Chekiang province offensive, Chinese troops have captured positions just across the Kan river from Nanchang, invader-held capital of Kiangsi, the Central Daily News reported today.

It said the gains were made yesterday in a "series of fierce battles."

Nanchang is the western terminus of the rail line from Hangchow which the Japanese have been pinching off section by section in assaults from both ends.

(The Japanese said today they had occupied Shangjao (Kwangsin) 50 miles by Railway into Kiangsi from the Chekiang border, cutting the Chinese-held central section of the rail line to less than 75 miles.)

Nanchang has been in Japanese hands since 1938. The Chinese have twice succeeded in penetrating the outer defenses of the heavily guarded city, but never were able to dislodge its defenders.

Western Atlantic Ship Sinkings Total 265

With the Germans threatening a new widespread campaign against all shipping in the Atlantic north of the West Indies, the total of ships sunk by enemy submarines in the Western Atlantic now stands at 265.

Additional sinkings of 13 merchant ships last week and one yesterday were announced officially. More than 394 crewmen and passengers of the 14 ships were reported rescued, while 18 lives were lost and 65 persons were missing.

The German announcement of an intensified U-boat campaign north of the West Indies said that "every ship which enters this zone after June 26, 1942, will explode itself to destruction."

KIWANIS CONVENTION OPENS IN CLEVELAND

Members Hear Talk on Value of Newspapers.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, June 15 — Press services as well as home town newspapers are "guardians of Americanism and good government," Raymond B Howard of London, O., president of the National Editorial Association, told the Kiwanis International convention today.

"Newspapers, particularly the daily newspapers, depend upon the news-gathering associations or organizations for news from all parts of the world. And nowhere in the world will be found more unbiased truthful reporting than that furnished by these American wire services," Howard said.

"Newspapers and their readers owe a great debt of gratitude to those men and women, who, fair weather or storm, peace or war, day in and day out risk life and limb chronicling for us the news so badly needed—truthful facts—needed to orient ourselves in a topsy-turvy world. They too, are guardians of Americanism and good government."

Marion Man Candidate for District Office

The Ohio district of Kiwanis International, meeting in Cleveland this week in conjunction with the annual international convention, will elect officers Tuesday afternoon. Attorney Harry L. Dowler, past president of the Marion club, will be sponsored by the Marion club for the post of lieutenant governor of the fourth district. A large group of Kiwanians and their wives went to Cleveland yesterday and others will go for sessions through Thursday.

The speaker last night was Leonard W Brockington, K. C., of Ottawa who said that each of the United Nations had been fighting two wars—"its own and somebody else's," according to a news report from Cleveland.

CHANGE IN FURLOUGHS

Automatic two-week furloughs for men inducted into the army will be effective June 29, not June 15, as previously announced, draft board officials here announced today.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 15—Gov. John W. Bricker will leave Saturday for Asheville, N. C., to attend the annual governors' conference. He is scheduled to address the conference June 23 on the state's duty in the war effort. He will return to Columbus Wednesday evening.

SOVIET FLEET HELPS TROOPS

Black Sea Force Reported Hitting Axis Forces with Barrage.

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, June 15 — Steaming into the fight for Sevastopol with its guns thundering, the Soviet Black sea fleet was reported today to have brought aid to the hard-pressed land garrison by laying down a deadly barrage which took a heavy toll of the axis assault forces.

The battles in the tight-drawn siege lines around the Crimean port and on the shell-pocked front east of Kharkov in the Ukraine continued with undiminished fury.

However, there were no further reports of German gains on either front since dispatches of yesterday which said the Germans had pushed forward in some sectors at Kharkov and turned loose a full-scale onslaught against Sevastopol in an attempt to smash the Russian defenses by sheer weight of men and armor.

Dispatches from the Crimean flank of the battlefront did not identify the warships whose guns were reported in action for the first time since June 5 when the new battle for Sevastopol began.

The principal units of the Black Sea fleet are the cruisers Red Crimea and Red Caucasus which played an important part earlier in the Russian recapture of Kerch and Feodosiya.

The warships previously had been engaged in maintaining a line of supply and communications for the port and naval base which has been cut off by land since last fall.

Naval infantry has been in action ashore for some time.

The Germans were reported to have bolstered their assault forces with strong reserve strength including units shifted from other fronts.

Their former timetable of attack—from 5 a. m. to to 9 p. m.—was said to have given way to 24-hour-a-day assault.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 15—The United States court of appeals today upheld the conviction of the American Medical Association and the Medical Society of the District of Columbia on charges of illegal restraint of trade in violation of the anti-trust laws.

The two organizations were convicted in district court last year of attempting to thwart the aims of Group Health Association, a cooperative of federal government employes.

All individual defendents named in the indictments along with the two organizations were acquitted at the trial.

MARION OPENS RUBBER DRIVE AT CITY LOT

Salvage Committee Builds Receiving Station; Gas Stations Also To Aid.

Marion's participation in the nationwide scrap drive got under way this morning with opening of a 30 by 20 foot fenced area at the city parking lot at Church and Prospect streets, where residents of the city and county may leave their used tires and scrap rubber.

Marion city and county residents today were asked by the Ohio Salvage committee and the Ohio Rubber Scrap committee of the Petroleum Industry War Council to search their attics, cellars, backyards and other places of discard for old rubber.

All discarded or spare rubber should be taken to the dump area at the parking lot or to one of the gasoline filling stations through the city and county. The badly-needed elastic may be donated or sold to the station operator for a penny a pound.

Make Arrangements

Arrangements to the dumping area were made by George Alber, Marion county chairman of the Ohio Salvage committee and H. A. Krigbaum, Marion county chairman of the committee of the Petroleum War Council.

All money derived from scrap dumped at the city lot will be donated to the United Service Organization, Mr. Alber said.

Mr Krigbaum today made an appeal for scales, bathroom size or larger, to be donated to filling stations during the scrap rubber drive. Anyone having scales which they are willing to lend is asked to take them to the nearest station or to the station where they deal and offer them to the operator. If the station already is supplied, call Mr Krigbaum at 6256 and he will assign the scales to another station. A careful check will be made to assure the scales being returned to the contributors, he said.

Tuesday Mr Krigbaum, accompanied by J. P. Sharkey of the Standard Oil Co., John Mathews of the Gulf Refining Co., Carl Kay of the Hi-Speed Co., E. L. Clark of the National Refining Co. and other Marion oil dealers, will attend a meeting of the Ohio committee of the Petroleum Industry War Council in Columbus. On Wednesday Mr Alber will attend a state conference in Columbus at

Dismissal of Librarian Voted by State Board

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 15—The state library board today voted 3 to 2 for the dismissal of Librarian Paul A. T. Noon if Noon doesn't quit at once. Noon resigned by request, effective June 1, but later sought to withdraw the resignation and retain the $5,000-a-year post.

The board voted 5 to 0 to dismiss Miss Mildred Sandow, library organizer. Traveling expenses of Miss Sandow and Noon had been criticized by Kenneth Ray, state director of education and supervisor of the library division. Ray requested Noon's resignation last month.

Marion Shows Part In War Effort With Great Celebration of Flag Day

Parade Takes One Hour and 20 Minutes To Pass Reviewing Stand; Boost for Bond Sales.

The first Flag day of World War II brought forth a public demonstration the like of which Marion never has seen — a parade of materials Marion and Morrow counties are producing for the war effort and materials being used to construct the Scioto Ordnance Plant in Marion county—and the biggest patriotic demonstration in Marion since the days of World War I.

It was sponsored by the Marion County War Savings staff and Marion business men cooperating in a nationwide Flag day drive to stimulate the sale of war bonds and stamps.

Estimates of yesterday's crowds thronging the parade route from Park boulevard to the Harding memorial ranged from 30,000 to 60,000 and of the number of marchers from 2,500 to 5,000.

At some points, particularly street intersections, the crowds were four and five deep. Porches of homes along the route were filled, some watchers sought building roofs as vantage points, hundreds sat in cars parked many hours before parade time.

Jeeps Give Rides

Army jeeps from the quartermaster corps of the Fifth Corps Area headquarters at Fort Hayes, Columbus, gave rides to everyone who pledged to purchase a bond Monday. Pledges were taken at eight stands set up along the parade route and manned by personnel from the banks and building and loan companies and the women's division of the War Savings staff. Marion women were salesladies. The jeeps' host was the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

E. J. Schoenlaub, chairman of the War Savings staff, said it would be several days before sales Saturday, yesterday and today could be tabulated.

It was one hour and 20 minutes from the time the first aerial bomb signaled the moving out of the first division until the last unit passed the reviewing stand, occupied by Col Roland B Lee, acting adjutant general and personal representative of Gov John W. Bricker, Lt. Col. John P. Huling Jr., commanding officer of the Scioto Ordnance Plant, Mrs. Huling, Mayor and Mrs Russell C Snare, visiting officials from surrounding communities and officials of the war department, Hunkin-Conkey Construction Co., Holabird & Root, architect engineers, and the U S Rubber Co.

As impressive a patriotic ceremony as any ever staged in Marion was the brief service at the Harding memorial, termination point of the parade.

Mass Flags at Memorial

The top step of the white marble tomb was lined with American flags and the flags of the participating patriotic organizations. On the lawn were the massed Harding, Caledonia, Mt Gilead, LaRue, Marion Eagles, Delphos Eagles, Claridon and Cardington bands, Ohio State Guard Companies from Marysville and Delaware, Marion Rifles and Women's Ambulance Corps. Escorted by J W Llewellyn, Colonel Lee, Lieutenant Colonel Huling and Mrs Huling, and officials from the reviewing stand mounted the steps.

W E. Orcutt, chairman of the program committee stepped to the microphone of the loud speaker system and said "We have witnessed an inspiring demonstration of loyalty and devotion to the flag of our land and all that it stands for. Let no one of us look upon it without seeing in the skies the shadowed host of those who have carried it in our defense. Let us now pay homage to our flag as our leaders direct."

Everyone turned toward the flag flying from the tall pole at the entrance to the memorial grounds and Common Pleas Judge Hector S. Young led the assemblage in repeating the oath of allegiance. Homer E Huffman, instrumental music supervisor in the Marion public school system mounted a flag-decked podium and, as grand band master, led the bands in playing the national anthem, which was sung by the crowd under the direction of L G Jones, public school supervisor in Marion.

Bugler Sounds Taps

After a moment of silent salute to the soldier dead of all wars, Pfc. John Reeder, bugler from Fort Hayes in Columbus, sounded taps. Private Reeder came to Marion in company with Lt. Col. E. H. Shade, former Marion man who is head of the chemical warfare department of the Fifth Corps Areas and who yesterday was marshal of the educational division.

When the crowd dispersed at the memorial the two Ohio State Guard companies and all service men of World War II were guests at the Legion Dugout where refreshments were served by the women of the Union Station canteen.

The traffic problem, created by an almost unprecedented influx of automobiles from surrounding communities and counties, was handled smoothly by men from the Marion substation of the State Highway patrol, Marion police and Boy Scouts.

Along Center and Main streets the parade was the constant target of motion and still cameras.

Winners of the plaques awarded by the general committee, of which Robert F. Mason was chairman, were selected this morning by the judges, Jerry Passen, Harold Carroll and Oscar Lusch.

Parade Leaders

State patrol and city police motorcycle men escorted the parade, over which flew planes from the Marion airport. The motorcycle escort was directed by Police Chief Marks, city fire-

Winning Floats Chosen in Flag Day Celebration

Winners of plaques awarded for the best floats in Marion's Flag day parade were decided this morning at a meeting of the judges, Jerry Passen, Harold Carroll and Oscar Lusch.

The plaques, upon being engraved, will be presented to the winners by a member of the general committee for the parade.

Two awards were made in the industrial division, largest unit in the parade. One went to the Pollak Steel Co for a float depicting Uncle Sam at a washtub, with Hitler, Mussolini and Hirohito strung on a clothesline, and the other to the Baker Wood Preserving Co. float with a huge red V outlined in blue and white, and three young girls occupying a dais.

In the Morrow county division the Hydraulic Press Mfg. Co., won a plaque with its float carrying one of the company's presses being operated by two men.

The educational division plaque went to Mt Mary Parochial school for its red, white and blue float filled with boys and girls of the school carrying "Buy Bond" signs.

The H. Schaffner Co's red, white and blue float bearing Miss Marilyn Meseke, former "Miss America," on a throne, surrounded by young women, won the plaque in the commercial-retail division.

The tunnel workers on the East Center street sewer project extending to the Scioto Ordnance Plant site won the plaque in the Scioto Ordnance division. Their float, showing men at work with a heavy drill, and with accompanying intermittent blasts of powder, was followed by trucks bearing the "Dangerous, Blasting," and "Dangerous, Explosives" signs which are familiar to residents of the area where the project is underway.

The civilian defense division plaque went to the Marion Reserve Power Co., for its float carrying a soldier, sailor and marine and a huge replica of the "Minute Man" symbol of war bonds and stamps.

C. H. Isaly Undergoes Operation at Hospital

ITALIAN PLANES ATTACK LARGE ALLIED CONVOY

Rome Claims Several Ships Sunk and Admits Loss of 20 Aircraft.

By The Associated Press

A giant running sea-air battle, which on the face of axis reports — the only information available thus far — seems to have stemmed from a major strategic move of the allies, was being fought today at Italy's Mediterranean doorstep between Tunis and Sicily.

The location of the battle, the strength and composition given by Rome for the allied naval force and the reckless expenditure of planes in the attack on it suggested either that Italian territory itself might be under attack or that the allies were engaged in a great transfer of strength between Gibraltar and Suez.

The Italian high command, in a special communique, claimed that two cruisers, one destroyer and four steamers were sunk out of one of two British convoys and a battleship, an aircraft carrier, two cruisers, one destroyer and four steamers heavily damaged.

The Italians said the convoy attacked was protected by "numerous units of the line and by two aircraft carriers." Spotting the convoy early Saturday, Italians said their scout planes later lost it and the first attack was not delivered until Sunday.

Report Plane Losses

"Numerous formations" of torpedo planes, bombers and fighters then struck the flotilla the Italians related. They acknowledged 20 planes lost themselves and reported shooting 15 carrier-borne planes down in flames.

"The operations were resumed in the early hours of this morning against the remaining units," the communique concluded.

Naval warfare broke out meanwhile in the Black Sea where the Red fleet, thundering into action to bolster Sevastopol against land assault, laid a curtain of shellfire on the encroaching Crimean line of the Germans.

With dwindling time in which to start a grand offensive before they are smitten aflank or at the rear on a second European front, the Germans are thrashing at the ramparts of Sevastopol while the remainder of the vast German-Russian front shows signs of an imminent general flareup.

Graves As Evidence

Despite a spendthrift use of fighting men, which in some sectors outweighed the Red army and civilian defenders five and six to one, Adolf Hitler still had only the hasty graves of his dead to show for his all-out effort against Sevastopol.

The Crimean port and base of Russia's Black Sea fleet still flew the hammer and sickle though no one could say how long the hard-pressed defenders could hold out. The violence of the fight mounted by the hour.

The German high command said several fortified positions on the southern side of Sevastopol's broad belt of defense had been captured by storming German infantrymen, while 16 defending planes were shot down yesterday by German bombers and fighters over the Sevastopol fortress area.

BOYS IN DELAWARE FOR 10-DAY STAY

Group Organizes for Legion Sponsored Event.

Special to The Star

DELAWARE, O., June 15—The Buckeye Boys' State of the American Legion voted today for "governor," as boys from throughout Ohio spend 10 days learning practical lessons in democracy.

The nominees are Dean Lauritzen, 17, of Canton, picked by the Nationalists, and Donald L. Bowers, 16, of Akron, chosen by the Federalists.

Some of the Marion boys arrived in Delaware as early as 11 a. m. Saturday, according to a report today from one of the group. Their first stop was Sanborn hall, designated the capital, for county and city assignments and physical examinations.

Printing and distributing campaign literature occupied most of the afternoon.

There are nearly 700 boys from over Ohio at this year's Boys' State. Formerly held in the Columbus fairgrounds, it was transferred to the Ohio Wesleyan university campus this year when the war department took over the fairgrounds.

PROGRESS COMPARED IN TWO U. S. WARS

Cleveland Trust Finds Nation Ahead of 1917.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, June 15 — Business is making "better and faster" progress than in the last world war, the Cleveland Trust Co calculated today.

Charting six comparative business series in its monthly business bulletin the bank found:

Industrial Production — Output now much larger and still expanding, although the rate of increase has slowed somewhat in recent months. In the last war, production reached its approximate maximum output in 1916 and remained at that level.

Manufacturing Employment — Increased at a slightly more rapid pace than in the last war, and still being enlarged. Actually about two and a half million more workers now employed than in 1917. "This enlarged labor force, capable of greater productivity, has made a much larger volume of goods."

Active Blast Furnaces — The number operated now is smaller, but not as many [illegible]. The present ones, however, are larger and more efficient. The highest percentage of furnaces in the last war was 91 in 1916 against 95 per cent recently.

New Construction — Has expanded "at a very rapid rate." During the first World war the increase in building activity was "substantial and steady but it was greatly exceeded by the record made last year."

Wholesale Prices — Made greatest gains from 1916 to 1917 in first World war and continued to advance at a slightly slower rate. This time, "our efforts to control price rises appear to be more successful."

Farm Prices — Closely related to commodity prices, following about the same pattern now as in the preceding war, while advancing at "a slightly more rapid rate."

Summing up, Cleveland Trust declared: "In general the six series make a favorable showing when compared with the record of the last war."

We can do it, Mr. President!

LET'S GO, OHIO! TAKE YOUR

SCRAP RUBBER

TO ANY GAS STATION AT ONCE!

YOU'VE BEEN WANTING TO DO MORE. Now—every man, woman and child can "do his bit" to help save the day for America! Scrap rubber is badly needed to win the war. The situation is so serious our President has issued an urgent plea to every American to turn in every single rubber article possible. To make it easy for you to cooperate, President Roosevelt, as part of his national appeal, requested Ohio's oil industry and the 17,000 convenient gas stations and hundreds of rural tank trucks to receive the rubber and pay you 1c per pound. Or, you may donate your scrap rubber. The oil industry is gladly cooperating with the President and the hundreds of Ohio Salvage Committees.

All scrap rubber collected will be immediately added to our country's vital supply. Gasoline dealers will be reimbursed by the oil companies supplying them, and the rubber will be bought by the Rubber Recovery Corp., a new government unit. Any margin over the penny a pound will go to Army and Navy Relief, the U. S. O. and the Red Cross. Oil companies, with others, will contribute transportation and all costs of picking up and handling, as well as the time of thousands of employees.

Of course, time is short and many service stations at first will not be adequately equipped with scales for weighing the rubber. Many will have to guess at it. We hope you'll patriotically bear with us in our attempt to be fair to all. If you have scales suitable for weighing the rubber, it would be helpful if you could lend them to your nearby station. So, here's your chance! Starting Monday, June 15, the more scrap rubber you turn in, the faster we'll beat the Axis in this fight for freedom. Please don't wait any longer than tonight to comb the attic, the cellar, the storage closets, the garage, the barn, the vacant lot next door—every place for every bit of rubber.

I am certain that ... of relief will get ... relief under state control ... they are getting under fed... control.

It cannot be denied that politicians have preyed upon the distress of the people through this agency to further their own interests. Politics will still play a part in the operation of relief, even if it is turned back to the states, but it will not be as bad as it is now under federal control.

With the states in control more of the funds will go to the needy and less to the politicians.

The recommittal motion provides for federal grants-in-aid to the several states for relief but must be supplemented by state funds, the entire amount, however, being under state control.

I am quite certain the people of this country are desirous of having this relief program turned back to the states. They know of the great amount of waste and extravagance that has taken place in WPA because of federal operation. They know of its high administrative costs under federal control. State administrators of WPA, for example, receive salaries of $10,000 a year, and they belong to the group of 250,000 political job holders to whom this congress recently provided pensions up to $5,000 a year. I say to you that in this hour, when everyone in this country is being asked to sacrifice to the limit, we should seriously consider whether it is right and proper to continue this relief program under federal control.

Unless the recommittal motion passes and the administration of relief is returned to the states, I will be compelled to vote against the final passage of the bill. I cannot vote to continue the exorbitant overhead costs, the wasteful practices, and the political exploitation of the poor that attend federal operation of this agency. The need for economy and conservation of our resources and integrity in government is too great to permit me to do this.

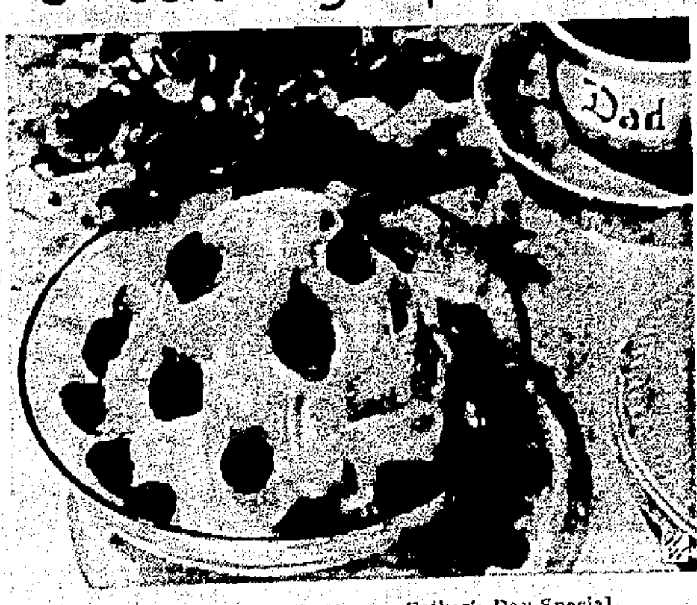
Sweetening Up Father



SUMMER ICE CREAM ... Father's Day Special

Summer Ice Cream

2/3 cup sweetened condensed milk, ½ cup water, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 cup berries or fruit, 4 tablespoons honey, 1 cup heavy cream, whipped.

Mix milk with water, vanilla and salt. Add fruit blended with honey. Chill. Fold in cream and pour into freezer. When half frozen, beat 2 minutes. Freeze until stiff—about 4 hours. Strawberries, raspberries, peaches, pineapple, apricots or bananas can be used as the fruit.

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
Wide World Food Editor

Most men think it's a party meal when a frozen dessert appears. So why not make a real function when Dad's day turns up and serve a luscious ice cream or sherbet as last course for dinner?

Here are some frozen dainty recipes, worked out with Dad in mind.

Apricot Mousse: Mix together 2 cups cooked mashed apricots, 2/3 cup honey, 3 tablespoons lemon juice, ¼ teaspoon finely grated lemon rind, 2 beaten egg whites and 1 cup thick cream, whipped. Freeze 4 hours, without stirring. Serve, piled up in sherbet cups and sprinkle with pecans or other nuts.

Golden Ice Cream: Mix together 1½ cups sweetened condensed milk, 2/3 cup water, 3 tablespons lemon juice, 1 cup mashed bananas, ½ cup crushed pineapple and 1 cup orange juice. Chill and fold 1½ cups thick cream, whipped. Freeze about 4 hours.

Suffolk Ice Cream gets its sweetening from crushed peanut brittle. Beat 3 yolks in double boiler, add ½ cup crushed peanut brittle, 1 cup milk and ¼ teaspoon salt. Cook slowly, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens. Beat, cool and chill, add 1½ teaspoons vanilla and 2 cups cream. Freeze until stiff.

Fruit Cream: Beat 2 eggs in double boiler, add ½ cup sugar, ½ cup light corn syrup and 1 cup milk. Cook until blended. Stir constantly. Cool and add 1 cup cream, 1 cup crushed strawberries or peaches, ¼ cup lemon juice and ¼ teaspoon finely grated lemon rind. Freeze until stiff.

Try this dessert trick using commercially made foods. Line a large tray in mechanical refrigerator with thin slices of angel food or sponge cake, macaroons or halved lady fingers. Fill with ice cream bought at the drug store. Add a layer of berries or sliced fruit and sprinkle with 2 tablespoons honey. Cover with more cake slices. Place in freezing unit for 4 hours. Unmold and garnish with fruit, berries or flowers.

Place of Honor for Soup Kettle

The War Production Board is hoping to return the once-familiar soup kettle to its old place of honor on the back of the kitchen stove. Twenty-two types of soups now are allowed for production, however, such varieties as cream of mushroom — which WPB thinks a luxury are out. So are bean and cream of potato. WPB thinks the homemaker can make these herself.

All government regulations are not against the homemaker, by any means. Part of the sweeping new orders to the soup canning industry provide that all soups not only must be condensed, but must contain certain specific percentages of dry solids by weight. The specified percentages vary from 6 per cent to 12 per cent.

Moreover, these solids must be chicken, or beef, or fish, or vegetables, according to the variety of soup. Soup cannot be padded out with rice, macaroni, ground pretzels (a favorite thickener) or what not.

Soups must contain these solids, says WPB, "in order to improve their nutritive content." Although the new regulation for solids sounds modest, it is likely to mean a shift in production techniques for large producers. WPB is demanding that chicken soups contain at least 6 per cent chicken (or other nutritious) solids; some condensed chicken soups now on the market contain as low as 3 per cent.

CALEDONIA—Mrs. L. O. Campbell entertained at dinner Thursday in honor of her nephew, Walter P. Stone of Crestline, who is home on a furlough from Fort Jackson, S. C. Those present were his mother, Mrs. Walter Stone of Crestline, Miss Imogene Stone of Cleveland, and Mary K. and John Royal Stone of Caledonia.

Hard and Soft-Shell Crabs

Questions about selection and preparation of crabs often are heard. Many expert cooks are unfamiliar with the easy method of handling this delicacy. Here are some practical suggestions:

Selection: Crabs have a hard shell, except during late spring and summer. They shed their old shells during this molting season and since the new shell has not hardened, they become soft-shell crabs. Live crabs are shipped to market under refrigeration. Uncooked crabs should be alive when purchased. Hard-shell crabs generally are bought already cooked.

Most canned crabmeat comes from Pacific waters. The blue crab is the Atlantic favorite; the Pacific supplies the red crab and the "blue stocking" Dungeness. Choice boiled Dungeness meat now is shipped under constant refriegration from coast to coast.

Amount Needed: Allow 1 hard-shell crab per portion, or 1 to 2 soft-shell crabs. A hard-shell crab weighing ½ pound yields about ½ cup flaked meat. One pound crabmeat will serve 6.

Boiling and Preparation: Soft-shell crabs usually are broiled or fried. Hard-shell crabs may be steamed 25 minutes, or boiled like lobster, after thorough washing under running water. Boil about 20 minutes in salted water until shell turns strawberry pink and the meat is milky white. Boil rapidly the first 5 minutes; simmer 10 to 15 minutes longer. Plunge into cold water after cooking until cool enough to handle.

Twist off the claws, both large and small, and break off apron or tail. Force shells apart by wedging a sharp knife at the tail end. Scrape away sponge substance (gills, stomach and intestines) between the two halves of the body and between the sides of top shell and body. (Stomach is a small bag placed near the head.) Remove all pieces of meat from body and claws, inspecting it carefully for bits of cartilage. Crack claws with nut cracker and remove meat, using nut pick or pointed knife. Ice meat at once unless desired for immediate use.

Many Uses: Chilled crabmeat yields its full distinctive flavor in canapes, cocktails and in lemon-flavored salad, combined with diced celery and crisp greens. It is delicious in creamed and au gratin dishes; it is served in molded form, and doubles successfully for lobster. Substitute crabmeat in your recipe for lobster Newburg.

Crabmeat Salad

Two cups fresh or canned crabmeat, 1 cup diced celery, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 2 teaspoons minced onion, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ¾ cup mayonnaise—salad greens.

Flake crabmeat and look over carefully, removing cartilage. Add celery, lemon juice, minced onion, salt, white pepper and mayonnaise. Mix well. Serve in lettuce cups, garnished with olives and sliced pickles. Serves 6.

TIMELY TREATS

Baked Onions

Onions are a "Victory Food Special" in June. Chop large scallions, brown them in shortening and add to your gravy. If you cannot eat them raw, boil scallions quickly in a minimum of water and dress with butter, adding cream and seasonings to taste. Serve larger onions this way:

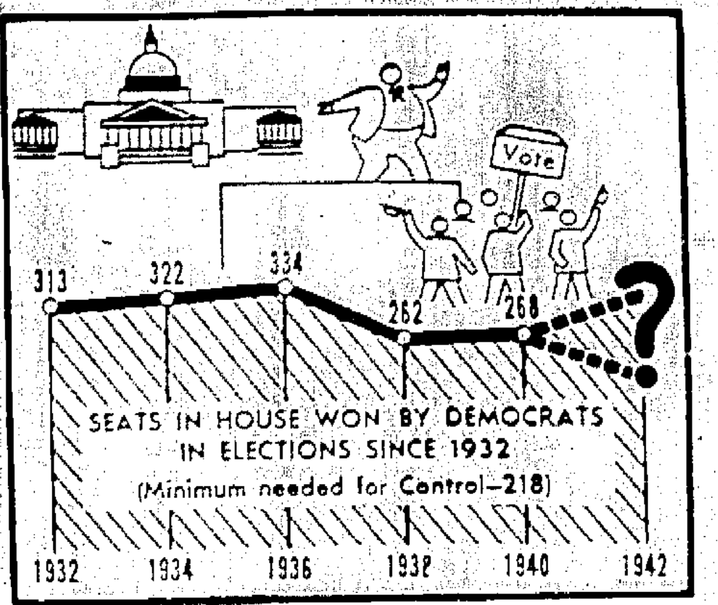
Six medium-sized onions, peel the onions and boil 5 minutes. 2 tablespoons butter, melted. Drain and cover again with boiling, salted water. Cook uncovered until tender; do not boil so vigorously that the onions are broken. Drain, place in a buttered baking dish and brush with the melted butter. (Butter crumbs may be added for topping.) Serves 6. Bake until browned in a moderately hot oven over 400 degrees F.

Sugarless Prune Pie

Three cups cooked prunes, pitted, 1 cup prune juice, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon quick-cooking tapioca, 1 or 2 tablespoons lemon juice, Pastry for 2 crusts, 2 tablespoons butter.

Combine prunes, prune juice, salt, tapioca and lemon juice. Roll ½ of dough and line a 9-inch pie dish. Fill pie shell with prune mixture. Dot with butter. Moisten edge of pie with water. Roll remaining dough; cut in strips ½ inch wide and arrange over pie, crisscross fashion. Place extra strips around pie rim. Bake 50 to 60 minutes in hot oven over 425 degrees F.

Republicans' Chances In 1942 Election Hinge On Voter Turnout Problem



By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., June 15—There is another spectre besides the war keeping Democratic leaders awake nights as the November elections near.

That spectre is the low turnout of voters which has been evidenced in all recent elections. When the turnout is low the Republicans usually stand to benefit, because a higher proportion of their ranks take the trouble to vote.

That is one reason why the G. O. P. has done so well in the special elections held during recent months to fill house vacancies. The average turnout in those elections was only about 40 per cent of normal.

If this same voting indifference prevails in November, the Democrats will have a major political problem on their hands, for it would give the Republicans a good chance of holding their own or possibly of gaining a few seats in congress. However, G. O. P. chances to win a major victory, or to take control of congress as they did in 1918, would seem remote at this time.

One month ago the Institute's first preview poll of the election showed that if the voting had been held at that time, the division of seats in the house would be 306 Democratic, 124 Republican, and 5 minor party—or an overwhelming Democratic majority.

The most hopeful factor, from the Republican point of view, is that the rank and file of Democratic voters show less interest in the election at the present time than the Republican voters do.

The Institute has just completed a test of the relative interest of voters in the fall elections, and it finds that among those persons who voted for Willkie in 1940, 71 per cent say they are interested in the coming congressional election, while among 1940 Roosevelt voters 66 per cent are interested.

What Low Turnout May Mean

The difference appears small on the surface. But it can play a vital part in the outcome of the election. The last congressional election, that of 1940, was so close in many areas that even a small drop in Democratic strength could shift many seats from Democratic to Republican.

There are, for example, 53 Democratic seats in the house which were won by majorities of 50 through 55 per cent of the major party vote. A low Democratic turnout at the polls in those areas might easily jeopardize Democratic control of such marginal seats.

The Primaries

Primary elections thus far have shown a low total turnout.

In the three largest states which have held primaries thus far, Illinois, Pennsylvania and Iowa, the total turnout has been about 30 per cent under the comparable 1938 mid-term primaries.

In Pennsylvania, 36 per cent of registered Republicans voted, but only 29 per cent of registered Democrats. In Luzerne county alone, which constitutes the Twelfth Pennsylvania congressional district, 45 per cent of registered Republicans participated in the G. O. P. primary last month, as against only 29 per cent of registered Democrats in the Democratic primary.

City Machines

In explaining the greater Republican turnout politicians are inclined to talk in terms of a "protest vote" against the party in power. Actually scores of surveys have shown that people in the higher educational and income levels are nearly always more interested in national politics than people in the less educated and lower income levels. It takes a dramatic campaign fight between a Roosevelt and a Willkie to bring out the vote in the low income groups — the groups which are predominantly Democratic.

This is not always true, of course, in large cities, where Democratic political machines are strong. There the machines can deliver low-income votes in a much higher proportion than the average for the country.

Machines Handicapped

But it is important to note that the Democratic big-city machines can do very little this year to boost Democratic representation in the house, for the simple reason that virtually all of the congressmen from the largest cities are already Democratic. About all the machines can do is to hold their ground. Even with the most efficient tactics, it would not be possible for them to increase the number of Democratic congressmen by more than a mere handful.

Many misleading parallels have been drawn between the political situation today and that of 1918, when the United States was also at war.

There was in that election a falling off in turnout which may have helped the Republicans in winning control of congress. But it must not be forgotten that in the 1918 campaign the Republicans had at least four good issues, whereas today interviews with voters reveal over and over again that the Republicans have not yet found an effective issue to use in winning over either the independent voters, or the voters who cast their ballots for Democratic congressmen in 1940.

Recent Special Elections

The results of the five special elections held since November, 1941, are worth studying for the light that they shed on the turnout problem.

Obviously the personalities of the candidates were a factor in these elections, as in all elections, but a study of all five shows that large Republican gains, percentage-wise, came in areas where the total turnout of voters was far below normal. The record is shown below.

Recent Special Elections To Fill House Vacancies

Nov., 1941, 15th Penna. district	G. O. P. won, but Rep. percentage of total vote was 5 points below 1940.	Turnout was 60% of normal
Dec., 1941, 4th Colo. district	G. O. P. won, with gain of 11 points over 1940.	Turnout 18% of normal
Jan., 1942, 5th Conn. district	G. O. P. won, with gain of 9 points over 1940.	Turnout 31% of normal
May, 1942, 12th Penna. district	G. O. P. won, with gain of 8 points over 1940.	Turnout 24% of normal
May, 1942, 33rd Penna. district	G. O. P. lost, and showed drop of 3 points from 1940.	Turnout 45% of normal

"Fight! Work! and SAVE!"
A War Message on WAR BONDS from the President of the United States
". . . The American people know that if we would raise the billions which we now need to pay for the war and at the same time prevent a disastrous rise in the cost of living, we shall have to double and more than double the scale of our savings.
"Every dime and dollar not vitally needed for absolute necessities should go into WAR BONDS and STAMPS to add to the striking power of our armed forces.
"If these purchases are to have a material effect in restraining price increases they must be made out of current income.
"In almost every individual case they should be big enough to mean rigid self-denial, a substantial reduction for most of us in the scale of expenditure that is comfortable and easy for us.
"We cannot fight this war, we cannot exert our maximum effort, on a spend-as-usual basis.
"We cannot have all we want if our soldiers and sailors are to have all they need."

Lidice

THE massacre of the men of Lidice and the sacking of that Czech village after the women and children had been seized mark the war's high point in atrocity stories. There have been accounts of more horrible Nazi brutalities, but nothing that placed the Germans in a worse light for their policy of rule by terror.

Fortunately, destruction of Lidice can be confirmed, if it happened. There seems to be little doubt, because the Germans, themselves, are said to have made the announcement. But, remembering the propaganda of 25 years ago, many Americans will prefer to question everything that inflames their hatred. They will hope the story of Lidice is not true, they will fear it is.

If it should be true, then there would be no doubt about what to do. The site of the village should be made a memorial to German brutality. The shame that Hitler and his gangsters have brought upon the German people—the shame the people have brought upon themselves—should be burned into the memory of mankind. Lidice should become the retort to every post-war protestation that Germans are gentle souls at heart. If their ability to revert at will to barbarianism had been remembered more clearly after 1918, Europe's newest blood bath might have been averted.

Partnership

ATTEMPTS to interpret the formalization of the working agreement with Russia that came into being the instant that government went to war with Germany a year ago are headed up a blind alley. Those who know what new developments may be in store are silent, and guessing without information is futile.

Circumstantial evidence, nevertheless, warns the would-be guesser to watch closely for repercussions in the north Pacific, where Russia's security must be calculated in terms of Japan's ability at any given moment to complete successfully an invasion of Siberia. Japan is not mentioned in what is known of the understandings reached in Washington and London with Soviet diplomats; the stress is on operations in Europe, principally the creation of a second front against Germany and its allies. On the not too far-fetched supposition that the purpose might be to keep Axis diplomats guessing, however, it may be Asia and Japan that are affected most by the formalization of the military partnership of the United States, Russia and Great Britain.

Certainly the first impulse in the United States is to think of the possibility of Siberian bases for United States bombers. By the same token, the cool reality of relations between Russia and its allies against Germany is demonstrated in the fact that so far Russia has maintained a mutually convenient neutrality with this country's Asiatic enemy. It is a reminder to Americans who might be otherwise inclined to expect nothing from Russia that cannot be bought and paid for in full. That's the way diplomacy should be, but since 1918, with few exceptions, Americans haven't liked to admit it.

Second Thoughts on Midway

IF THE Japanese had succeeded, they would have taken the last United States outpost west of Hawaii, key to defense of the continental United States from sea-borne invasion, six months to the day after their attack on Pearl Harbor. Apparently, they had timed the attack on Midway with the calendar in mind. The psychological impact of success on the American mind would have been tremendous.

If the United States navy had been as alert before the attack on Pearl Harbor as it evidently was before the attack on Midway and if the coordination with other fighting forces had been as good, the sucker punch delivered last Dec. 7 might have been turned into a disaster. A large part of Japan's carrier-borne fighting strength might have been wiped out at the moment of attack; the United States has prepared Pearl Harbor for years to resist just such an attack, whereas the installations on Midway are relatively weak.

There never was a better reason for remembering Pearl Harbor than there is now, with the battle of Midway to demonstrate what could have happened at Pearl Harbor if the United States had not been taken by surprise.

News Behind the News

Meaning of United Nations' Pacts Found in Background of Agreements.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, June 15 — To [illegible] that the [illegible] — and [illegible] do not [illegible] the [illegible] texts [illegible] and the [illegible] straight from [illegible].

[illegible] started with the [illegible] of the four freedoms—of speech, of religion, from want, from fear. He worked out the Atlantic charter with Mr. Churchill, emphasizing the first two on [illegible] for self determination of peoples and against seizures of territory, etc.

But the Atlantic charter did not specifically mention speech and religion. It did mention want and fear and suggested economic methods of avoiding them by free access to raw materials, dropping trade barriers, etc.

In this new Washington-Moscow agreement there is no specific mention of any of the freedoms. Three references are made to the Atlantic charter.

Accepts Basic Principles

The preamble notes that the Russian government accepted "the basic principles of the Atlantic charter" (it adhered in London in September 1941). But the official announcement and the text of the agreement both mention a new phrase—just "the attainment of the economic objectives" of that charter.

Language of diplomacy is generally as significant as the wording of a law. Unofficial interpretations are uncertain but you will find enlightening explanation in this instance in the column published June 8.

The Russians had been politely pressing Britain and the United States for a post-war promise of her 1941 boundaries including half of Poland, the Baltic states, parts of Rumania. This was an untimely request in the midst of war, because it raised, for one thing, the question of carrying the four freedoms and self-determination to that half of Poland, Latvia, Estonia, Lithuania, etc.

While some claim has been that religious freedom is provided, but not encouraged, in Russia, no one will claim either freedom of speech or political freedom would be promoted by even such a modest acquisition of territory by the Reds.

U. S., Britain Decline

The United States and Britain, therefore, declined to make such a promise, and the agreements represented what London and Washington were willing to do in lieu of such a promise. Primarily the agreements postponed settlement of that troublesome point until after victory is achieved, and offered friendly concessions.

The Washington agreement kills the former arrangement for Russian payments for lend-lease war materials, payments which were to have started within five years after the war was over and be concluded in 10 years. The Russians will give back what they have not used and pay for what was used in some manner yet to be negotiated, without a time limit.

The British felt constrained to go further than we did. They made an actual twenty-year mutual (political) defense treaty in a formal way, while ours was technically an economic understanding and a new lend-lease arrangement.

The British seemed to guarantee Russian boundaries, but they did not say whether these are to be the 1941 boundaries or the pre-war borders. The British thought it necessary, presumably, to show extra-good faith to Moscow, in view of Soviet ill-feeling over Czecho-Slovakia, Munich and other matters to which we were not a party.

Also the British may feel some inner embarrassment at having been unable themselves, before this, to establish a second front which has been primarily their obligation. One will be established. You may not doubt that because it affords the only logical way for either of us to win the war.

All Positions Known

Thus relations between the three strongest United Nations have been placed formally on a restrained and realistic war basis. This may forecast post-war difficulties, but at least everyone knows fairly well how he and the other fellows stand.

You can see realism in the British treaty proposal to keep both Russia and Britain in arms until a European security agreement which will inspire their mutual confidence is reached—if it takes twenty years. That is the point. It forecasts a long armistice.

Realism lies also in Mr. Roosevelt's provision for return of unused war materials from Russia. No one apparently is going to go into arms scrapping this time, before he knows—and I mean knows—he is secure.

Russia, you will recall, has never been a party to a disarmament agreement before, which may be one reason why she was able to match the German surprise attack and save her country.

All idealism is thus left to post-war negotiation.

They Cover the War Fronts

First of a series of articles about The Associated Press correspondents who are risking their lives to give newspaper readers in their home country reports from the war fronts.

Few war reporters have seen as much actual combat as Clark (Chang) Lee of The Associated Press.

Just this week in his dispatches giving detailed accounts of the battles of Midway Island and the Coral Sea have been read by millions throughout the country.

When the Japanese invaded the Philippines he rushed from Manila to the front, sent back the first eye-witness accounts. His graphic dispatches from beleaguered Bataan made journalistic history—"the best this war has produced on any front," The Infantry Journal, semi-official publication, said. He escaped to Australia shortly before the fall of Bataan.

"I probably was lucky," Lee said, "to get out with nothing more serious than a broken hand, suffered while diving into a foxhole to escape strafing planes, and a few small scars, the result of being blown off a dock at Corregidor by a shell."

He comes by newspapering naturally. His father, now dead, was one of the founders of United Press. His mother writes a column for The Newark (N. J.) Sunday Call. His sister once was society editor of The Newark Star-Eagle.

Born Jan. 31, 1907, in Oakland, Calif., Lee moved with his family to Maplewood, N. J., during World War I. Tall, rangy and athletic, he entered Rutgers in 1925 and played varsity third base. He joined The Associated Press at Newark in 1929, two years later went to the Latin American desk in New York. He was appointed chief of bureau at Mexico City in August, 1933, and chief of bureau of Honolulu in June, 1936. He was transferred to Tokyo in August, 1938, and remained there until April, 1939, when he was sent to Shanghai.

In the fall of 1941, he was scheduled to return to the United States on furlough. He got only as far as Manila.

Battleships in Action

Here's What Happens When Big Ship Goes to War.

(Wide World)

Condensed from "The Tools of War" by James R. Newman, published by Doubleday, Doran & Company, Inc.

LET us go into action aboard a battleship. Look her over. The first thing that strikes us is the flat fatness of her 35,000 tons. Along her 650-foot length she swells to over 100 feet amidships. Her jumbled superstructures are not used for living quarters, but only for navigating bridges, fire-control towers, workshops and signal stands. Yet in the cramped space below room must be found for a whole city of men, including tailors, barbers, printers, dentists, and soda-jerkers. The ship's social structure makes the arrangement more complex: each class of men must have its own separate messes, galleys, recreation quarters, and shore boats. A hundred tons of beef may be aboard, alongside hundreds of tons of ammunition. On British ships is a supply of daily rum, on American ships a supply of Hollywood movies.

As the fleet steams toward the suspected area the flagship becomes a rush-hour transmission center. Messages are coming in from the aircraft-carriers' planes that have sighted the enemy a hundred miles away; cruiser screens are being ordered about, destroyer flotillas are being closed; enemy messages that the navy's shore stations have picked up and decoded and relayed are being received.

Custom of Chow

Aboard our own ship approaching action the captain's first thought has probably been — in accordance with immemorial sea custom — to order his men to "chow." Later the general-alarm bell starts clanging. Men dash into the showers, swab down with an antiseptic wash, and change into fresh uniforms. "Clear ship for action" is piped: railings are snapped down, light bulbs are unscrewed, bulkhead doors and hatches swing shut, each movable thing is made fast. Turret crews test the hoists, buzzers, telephones.

While ideally the ship's 16-inch guns can hit a target at the immense range of 35,000 yards, the chances of doing so under many actual sea conditions are remote. If a gale is blowing, the ship will be an unsteady firing platform. While the atmospheric conditions here are known, they are not known in the upper regions through which the shell has to travel, nor are they known at the enemy's position fifteen or twenty miles away; and if they differ materially the trajectory of the shell will become such a complex curve that no mathematician could possibly predict it. The enemy is not even in sight. . . .

Secret Heart of Ship

Far down in the ship, a highly secret room lights up and goes to work. To this room come constant messages from all vital centers: from the control tops, as high as one hundered and twenty feet above the water line, from the huge range finders that are mounted in the turrets; from the navigator on the bridge; from the engine room which reports on engine evolutions, and, most important of all, from the radio shack, which has received the spotter plane's messages. The plotting room is the medulla that puts all the information together.

The scene of action now shifts up to the director post, which may be located in cubicle quarters atop the cage masts as in the U. S. Maryland class, or in a low tower as on the British Nelson and King George V classes.

In this post, there is a master sight that, with all the information passed up from below, tries precisely to "keep on" the enemy.

Fired By Control Chief

The actual firing of the guns is out of the hands of the men behind it. Up in the tower the control chief waits for the instant at which the ship will level off after a roll and then presses the trigger for the whole salvo.

The subsidiary batteries—some eight to sixteen 6-inch guns, intended chiefly against destroyer attack—must have their own entirely separate director post. The A.A.'s and multiple pompoms must also have theirs. Both of these systems, again, must have their alternate or emergency ones. And in the midst of all this fantastic intricacy the commander must try to keep some idea of where he is on the battleground, even though the field be nothing but a smudge of smoke and cordite fumes, with no other ship clearly in sight.

Deferments

By DAMON RUNYON

Sen. Tydings Discovers Mysterious Goings-On in Case of Certain of Our Young Men in Capital.

SEN. TYDINGS of Maryland, chairman of a special committee, seeks a checkup on draft deferments given 1,000 young male employes of the government. He discloses some surprising cases of kids holding nice jobs in various governmental departments and being deferred on the ground that they are indispensable.

It is only fair to state that the senator admits that on the whole the deferment privilege has been judiciously used by most agencies of the government. His complaint is that the abuses his special committee has uncovered are particularly flagrant.

One genius of 21 was appointed a year ago to a job paying $1,620 per year and was subsequently twice deferred and raised in salary on the ground that he was a cog of such value that his department could scarcely exist without him. He is one of 12 personnel officers granted deferment out of a total of 42 clerical employes in one departmental unit.

Another chap of 22, who was appointed in 1940 when he was 21, is deemed of such extraordinary value in recruiting stenographers, economists and junior administrative personnel that he has been twice deferred, the senator citing this case as a "classical example." It indicates that the favored young man is from Kansas.

NOW ALL THIS bears out the argument which I have been boring my readers with for some time that there are a great many governmental jobs occupied by young fellows that should be turned over to men willing to serve their country but barred from combat service by age or perhaps those slight physical defects that loom very large when army engineers come upon them.

These defects may not prevent a man from being of enormous value in civil life and may not impair his executive ability or his spirit of patriotism, but when the examiners find them they are serious enough to cost the government administrative services that private employers are glad to reward with fat salaries.

Meantime, as Sen. Tydings discloses, young fellows of draft age are being deferred to keep them in jobs that surely older men with greater experience and judgment could easily handle. The mothers and fathers of other boys in combat lines are given good reason to complain bitterly about the inequalities of the situation.

IT IS TRUE that all men up to 65 have been registered for possible service and presumably are now being classified. Perhaps they will eventually be called. But the fact remains that many offers of service by men in the higher age brackets who are eminently qualified to discharge the duties of executive positions have been rejected or wholly disregarded while the kids hang on.

I do not say that the indispensability of the youngsters is questionable in every case under present circumstances. It is quite possible that some could not be replaced without a department sustaining severe loss, but it seems to me the loss would be offset to some extent by the value of the young men to the combat divisions.

The deferment abuses can scarcely be blamed on the young men themselves. Much as I would like to have my readers think me a brave fellow, I must confess I am not sure that if I were in a safe job and my relatives or friends had drag enough to keep me there, I would be breaking down doors to escape. The thing of which Sen. Tydings complains goes back to those able to invoke the deferments and sometimes that is back beyond even local boards.

Bomber Office Work

By JOHN GROVER

A lot of super staff work, in which the capabilities of scores of bombers must be translated into split-second operations, is necessary for a successful mass air raid like the ones the British have been staging over Nazi Europe.

Prior to the raid, requisitions must be made to have the necessary bombs, gasoline and stores brought up, for delivery just before the flight (where storage facilities are not available) or some time before, if a storage dump is handy. These movements must be planned to prevent espionage leaks.

The personnel must be assigned, flight orders written, and all the pre-flight weather information assembled and speedily duplicated for pilot guidance.

The actual flight timing must be carefully worked out on the basis of distance to target, speed of the various echelons using different types of planes and taking off from airports at varying distances from the target.

For a hypothetical illustration, let's say Squadron A is based 725 miles from target and the planes cruise at 250 miles an hour. Squadron B is based 610 miles from the target with ships making 300 miles an hour. The Operations boss wants them to arrive over target [illegible] minutes apart. Obviously, Squadron B [illegible] start considerably after A to follow A over the target by five minutes.

To prevent collision, Squadron A might be ordered to come in at 16,000 feet above [illegible] make its run, wheel right 90 degrees for [illegible] minutes and return at 17,500 feet. Squadron B might come in at 15,000 feet, wheel [illegible] minute and come back at 20,000.

Within the Squadron, they'd probably fly in "V" echelon until approaching the target area, then assume the formation for [illegible] ordered by Operations. At Cologne, the British say they went over in single file at six-second intervals. Within the Squadron, then, they probably broke the V formation 50 miles [illegible] assumed a single file on a definite course [illegible] 704 yards apart, which is the distance a [illegible]-mile-an-hour bomber goes in six seconds [illegible] on a pre-determined course at exact [illegible] made their runs, wheeled on a pre-determined course and returned.

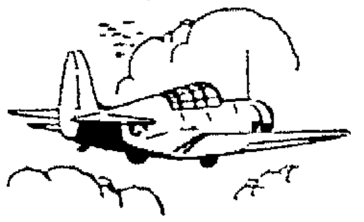
What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The Torpedo Bombing plane has been developed to a high state of perfection and efficiency by our Navy. They have been used most efficiently to scatter and destroy both enemy fighting ships and convoys. They use a bomb something like a sub torpedo.



The Navy Torpedo Bomber costs approximately $188,000. Our plane factories are building them at an amazing rate of construction. We need many of them and must pay for them through the purchase of War Bonds. You and your neighbors can help buy Torpedo Bombers for the Navy if you invest at least ten percent of your income in War Bonds every pay day.

MARION CO. SCHOOL HEAD ON PROGRAM

Supt. Mills in Charge of State Convention Group.

D. T. Mills, county superintendent of schools, plans to attend the Ohio Educational association's annual convention at Cedar Point next Friday and Saturday.

Mr. Mills will be in charge of the county superintendent's luncheon Saturday. A group discussion will be held in connection with the luncheon. The main topic to be discussed is the physical education program in county schools next year.

Two problems face county school officials: first, the lack of transportation facilities for those taking part in such activities at different schools; secondly, how to obtain physical education instructors and coaches when so many such men are being called into the armed services or are taking other defense jobs.

Mr. Mills said present regulations make it necessary to have in every school one teacher who has at least a minor in physical education. There will undoubtedly be vacancies in this connection in county schools, he explained.

George A. Bowman, formerly superintendent of Marion city schools and now superintendent of schools at Youngstown, will be in charge of discussion of school finances at a meeting at 2 p. m. Friday.

The financial problem facing schools is now to keep teachers in the face of increasing opportunity for employment in other fields, Mr. Mills said.

EAST COAST TRAIN WRECK KILLS EIGHT

Division Head Is Found Dead After Accident.

By The Associated Press

KITTRELL, N. C., June 15—The ramming of the seaboard airline's streamliner, the Silver Meteor, by a freight train yesterday—third smashup in the Virginia division since May 6—was followed less than two hours later by the fatal shooting of H. M. Terrell, 56, division superintendent, at Raleigh.

Eight persons were killed and 11 injured in the accident.

Railroad officials declined to say whether Terrell's death was connected with the wreck.

Terrell's body was found in the railroad yard at 6 a. m., five hours after the accident.

Coroner Roy M. Banks said Terrell "was worried about the wrecks and he was overworked. He had been talking about the wrecks. The man was overworked and unnerved."

The Silver Meteor, fast New York-to-Florida through train, was running an hour and a half behind schedule, railroad officials said. It had stopped here to receive emergency orders, and in stopping the brakes became locked. A few minutes later the freight train plowed into the observation car. Only this car of the 17-coach train was damaged.

Strong Stand Of Red Army Best News for Allies

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Wide World War Analyst

The Russian lines held staunchly through a bloody week-end—and that's the vital news of the hour.

There can be no doubt that Hitler is straining every nerve to get his heavily delayed offensive under way. But it won't roll until he can rip loose a portion of that magnificent Red line somewhere.

Particularly violent fighting continued on the Kharkov front in the Ukraine and before the long-besieged Soviet naval base of Sevastopol on the Crimea in the Black sea. These operations represent a Nazi effort to crack the gateway into the Caucasus, thereby creating a funnel through which the Nazi chief could pour his waiting legions.

The Germans, employing the tactics which they made so well known in the first World war, have been trying to breach the Red defenses by weight of numbers. It's a method of attack which frequently succeeds—if you don't care how many lives you sacrifice. However, Marshal Timoshenko's Bolshevists at latest reports were standing them off and inflicting heavy losses. That the defenders also were suffering many seemed a foregone conclusion.

Further evidence that the fuehrer is trying to get his "spring" blitzkrieg going is seen in the boiling up of fierce local attacks throughout the length of the attenuated Russo-German line. One of the most important of these assaults continues against the Arctic port of Murmansk, the railhead through which vital American and British military supplies are being poured into Russia. The Nazi object, of course, is to cut this lifeline.

Watch Murmansk, if you would keep well informed on the progress of the war, since preservation of this route is essential, and its loss would be a real catastrophe. Don't forget that this is a war of resources. Production and transportation must be maintained at top pitch.

RUBBER

which Gov. Bricker, Herbert L. Gutterson, chief of the general salvage division of the war production board, and Harold W. Nichols will speak.

Another Source of Rubber

Rubber pads on the floor of automobile trunks are a new source of scrap rubber, according to a communication today from Robert O. Weible, executive secretary for the Ohio general salvage division. He suggested that the pads be replaced by some other substitute. According to the communication there is enough rubber in two trunk pads to recap one ordinary size tire.

Although officials made no flat statement that a decision on nationwide gasoline rationing would hinge on the campaign, William R. Boyd Jr., chairman of the petroleum industry war council said that whether automobiles could be kept rolling "depends entirely on the total tonnage of rubber scrap there is," according to an Associated Press dispatch from Washington. Countrywide gas rationing has been considered as a means of conserving tires.

Boyd emphasized that "any and all profit" accruing to the oil companies in the scrap transactions—between the cent-a-pound for scrap delivered at the service stations and the $25 a ton the government will pay for it—would go to the United Service Organizations, the Army and Navy Relief and the Red Cross.

Marion and Prospect Dogs Win at Kenton

TRUCK OPERATORS STUDY REGULATIONS

Seek Voluntary Curb on Unnecessary Mileage.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, June 15—Ohio truck operators who came here today to study rules promulgated by the office of defense transportation, learned that 60 per cent of the trucks hauling freight into and out of the city were violating regulations.

C. R. Allen of Cleveland, regional manager for ODT and former general manager of the Bolla Driveaway Co., said a similar percentage of violations was being made by local delivery services in the Cleveland metropolitan area.

Allen said that for the time being his office would depend on policing activities of "the honest, patriotic truckers who want to win this war," and the willingness of householders to report truck operations, particularly in local deliveries, that violate regulations.

The rules most flagrantly violated are: one stipulating that a a truck delivering and picking up goods over a circuitous route must not exceed by 10 per cent the crow's-flight mileage for a round trip between starting point and return, and secondly, the one forbidding any special deliveries except to hospitals or the armed forces, or to places that may need emergency supplies for the protection of life and property.

The second regulation also prohibits any delivery truck from calling at the same place more than once a day, and stipulates that all local delivery trucks must cut 25 per cent from their mileage as compared with the same month of 1941.

Operators attending the ODT meeting were expected to assist in forming for each city in this area sub-committees for each branch of the trucking industry. The representative of the food trucking industry, for example, will serve as a clearing house for information from his fellow truckers.

SEA BATTLE

positions from which to launch a grand offensive toward the Caucasus, a battle for rectification of the line was said by the Hitler command to have ended in the German favor.

The communique said that "remnants of the beaten enemy" had been destroyed and 25,000 Russian prisoners taken, along with destruction or capture of 226 tanks and 208 field guns.

If the Russians make their slogan stick—"not another step backward!"—Sevastopol will remain a thorn in the flank of the anticipated German drive toward the Caucasus which even now seemed to be taking its preliminary form in the Kharkov sector north of the Crimean peninsula.

There the Germans were attempting to exploit wedges driven into the lines recently rectified by a Russian offensive. These gains likewise cost the Germans heavily in machines and men—2,850 troops lost within the past two days, according to today's Moscow communique.

Bitter fighting at many scattered points on the rest of the front suggested that the whole battleline may be springing into new action.

The war with Russia, which Adolf Hitler said months ago was all over except for the mop-up, will be one year old next Monday.

RAF Active

In perimeter zones of the European conflict, the RAF reported sharp blows overnight against Hitler's air bases and communications, and the Italian high command told of "violent air and naval action with two large, strongly escorted British convoys in the eastern Mediterranean yesterday.

An American volunteer with the RAF, Squadron Leader W. B. Cooper, of St. Petersburg, Fla., sank two out of three ships in an axis convoy off the coast of Holland.

The Italian high command reporting on the battle of Libya, declared the British had lost 69 tanks, 13 guns and 700 men taken prisoners last Friday and Saturday.

"Violent patrol and artillery activity" and axis air attacks characterized the fighting yesterday in the region of Ain El Gazala, the Italians said.

"New Europe" Trouble

Norway and France appeared currently as the most active sectors of anti-Nazi violence within Hitler's new Europe.

Stockholm reported that many persons had been wounded in a battle between Quislingists and other Norwegians near Trondheim where the Norwegian Nazis entered the towns of Rissa and Selbu to "take reprisals."

Another Stockholm dispatch said that Vidkun Quisling, premier of the German puppet government, was meeting with his ministers and pro-Nazi party leaders at Oslo to study the political situation in all parts of Norway.

Paris Bombing

The Paris city hall was shaken yesterday by a small bomb planted in an underground passage but only the German radio reported casualties—injury to two persons.

Diplomatic quarters in Switzerland reported meanwhile that Germany and Italy had shaped new proposals for a formal peace to replace the armistice with France.

Hitler was said to be eager for such a peace by June 25, anniversary of the armistice at Compiegne, in order to cite it as progress under his "new order."

Stockholm said that 258 Jews were shot in Berlin on May 28, the day after the fatal attack on Reinhard Heyrich, Gestapo chief in the Bohemia-Moravia "protectorate." Execution of 15,000 Jews in Berlin, Prague and Vienna was reported threatened in event of "any plot against a single German."

Tass, official Russian news agency, suggested that Hitler considering a drastic purge of his officers corps to remove friction with the Gestapo.

Explanations of Price Control Program Lauded

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 15—Efforts of newspaper advertising executives to aid retailers in explaining price control programs to the public were lauded by Price Administrator Leon Henderson in a message read today at the opening session of the Newspaper Advertising Executives association convention.

"Today — he (the retailer) needs that help more than ever, for his own sake, for the sake of all of us," Henderson said. "That is why I hope I may see exhibits of advertisements signed by retailers which you helped inspire—messages that will go a long way toward creating public understanding of the price control program—the understanding we must have if we are to continue full speed to victory and to the victories of peace after that."

tropic country, the exertion here produces perspiration. The heat of runs around 95 degrees shade and, in the sun, high past the hundredtrast, the early morning freshing cooling winds necessitate at least a sheet over sleeping men. The night is the worst time, for tropic insects.

Sanitation work — a really fine accomplishment—has rid the area of fever-carrying mosquitoes but chances can be taken and men sleep under heavy nets, walk patrols with heavy face nets.

Even so there is an [illegible] type of gnat in this vicinity not to mention sand-flies — for which nets are no protection — and there are nights when they [illegible] that outpost guards [illegible] be changed twice as frequently as usual to provide proper relief.

There Are Chiggers, Too

More painful yet are chiggers —not to be confused in the slightest with the pygmy insects of the same name in the states.

Chiggers in Surinam are tiny black bugs which infest the whole sands. They dig into the skin of a soldiers' feet where they lay eggs that raise swelling.

Chigger and eggs must be cut out—a not particularly comfortable procedure—but the men are used to it now.

For troops operating in the dense jungle there are the added dangers of wild animals and snakes, including the boa constrictor, but the few encounters recorded to date have resulted only in adding some doughboys' names to the roster of successful jungle hunters.

All the larger cantonments now have movies and athletic programs but the men naturally miss the complete lack of social contacts that exists in frontier service.

Passes are available for occasional trips to Paramaribo, seat of Dutch colonial government, but there is little else in the way of entertainment.

Cost of living is high in Surinam and, to provide equalizing compensation, the U. S. forces receive an additional 32 per cent payment on their regular salary scale.

But privations seem only to sharpen the soldierly qualities of these rugged fighting men and in the words of Corp. Charles McDonald of Cincinnati, one who's been through it all, "regardless of the grunts and groans you hear, we are all glad to have an opportunity to be in the front lines of national defense."

Meanwhile men are sitting on alert around the bauxite mines—waiting for the patter of duck-steppers coming through the jungle.

"And oh what we'd give for a crack at them."

UNFAIR TO LOVE

By Watkins E. Wright

CHAPTER 29

Disillusioned

"JIMMY, darling," Kathleen was now saying, "I know I shouldn't have come — knowing you're engaged to my sister, but— but—"

"I'm glad you did come, Maureen," said Paul. "I've always [illegible] Molly's little sister."

"[illegible] ked' all?"

"I'm fond of you, awfully fond of you — Maureen. You should [illegible]."

[illegible] lines along that order, [illegible] Maureen trying to tell [illegible] that she was in love with [illegible], Jimmy, suspecting, and trying to change the subject. It wasn't such a bad scene, Joe thought—if only they didn't drag it out so long. His hands were wet with perspiration, and perspiration was running down his back. He could feel it trickling under his shirt.

Then, with a few little running steps, Kathleen was clinging to Paul. She was sobbing out her love. Her arms were closed tightly about Pauls' neck. It looked more like a stranglehold in a wrestling match than anything else, Mr. Frank thought.

"I love you—I love you—I love you—Jimmy—darling!" Kathleen was saying, in between sobs.

"You mustn't say that, Maureen," Paul said. "You mustn't!" Then sotto voce: "And for Pete's sake don't choke the life out of me."

"Take me with you, Jimmy! Please!" said Kathleen. And aside: "I'm not choking you. I'm trying not to cover your face, like you said Ruby did."

The word "please" was Ruby's cue. She came tripping in.

"I forgot my fan!" she said. Then, seeing Kathleen in Paul's arms, she gasped. "Oh, so that's the way things are! My own little sister — my own innocent little sister, kissing my husband-to-be!"

The words "husband-to-be" were Paul's cue, but he failed to take it. Ruby, startled, repeated them. Paul, who was now staring out across the footlights, appeared to be stone deaf.

"My own innocent little sister kissing my husband-to-be!" said Ruby, this time so loud it sounded like a clarion call.

Down Front

Paul jumped. "It's no fault of hers," he said, "if she falls in love with me, is it?" At last he found his line. "She is innocent, Molly. You must take good care of her, while I'm gone, and when this horrible war is over, I'll come back and take care of both of you."

"Oh, Jimmy — Jimmy," said Ruby, "forgive me! I didn't mean to suspect you, but—" There was a sudden stop, as Ruby now looked out across the footlights. "But—but—I love someone else, Jimmy. I can't wait for you."

"You—you—what?"

"I'm going to marry Peter Van Wert. So when you come back, you must forget me—and learn to love Maureen."

"Oh!" said Kathleen. "Oh, Jimmy—you will, won't you?"

And then the curtain.

Kathleen, spent, trembling, started to run off the stage. But the applause called her back. The curtain went up. She took call after call, standing between Ruby and Paul. Then, finally, the curtain stayed down, and Kathleen rushed off to her dressing room.

Ruby and Paul faced each other upon the stage.

"I suppose you saw who's sitting down front as big as life?" said Paul.

"Yes, I saw," said Ruby. "She was swell, doesn't she? But she pretty nearly ruined your scene."

"Pretty nearly!" said Paul. "She did ruin it. But what could I expect of a woman like Laura— sitting there grinning—"

"Don't yell so," warned Ruby. "They'll hear you out front."

"Well, let them!" said Paul. He started off, and then whirled about. "Did you have anything to do with Laura coming down here?"

"The idea, Paul!" protested Ruby. "What a thing to ask me. You don't think I'd deliberately do something to spoil our beautiful play, do you?"

Paul watched Ruby's face closely. "Sometimes I think you can every other woman living are quite capable of anything," he said.

Then he stormed off to change for the third and last act.

There was shooting in the final scene—and several dead extras lay around the stage. [illegible] fallen when the "damned Yankees" fired upon the old homestead. Then when the curtain fell at last Paul and Ruby stood among the dead [illegible] others arms [illegible] together working to build up the waste that was [illegible] Southland. "Innocent little sister Maureen" lay beneath the apple trees, she had "lived" the [illegible] of [illegible] wild bullet.

Shock for Kathleen

Applause, more generous than the play deserved, rang throughout the reconstructed old barn. All the actors and actresses took bows, even Kathleen, who [illegible] from beneath the apple trees to greet her compatriots. As [illegible] two lonely scouts who had been sent down to Linville [illegible] things over, sneaked out [illegible] their noses.

"At first I thought it was the barn that smelled," said one of them. "But I was wrong—it's the play."

And some of the acting [illegible] the other.

"That 'sex' gal's easy to [illegible] at," said the first speaker. "[illegible] she ought to stick to high [illegible] plays."

"What practically killed me," said the second speaker, "was that [illegible] girl—Dum Sum [illegible] thing-or-other—trying [illegible] with a Southern drawl."

Joe and Mr. Frank overheard the conversation. They looked at each other.

"I'm afraid I shall have to [illegible]

MORE CABORN STEEL BECOMES AVAILABLE

Lower Priority Holders Now Promised Delivery.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, June 15 — Some sellers of plain carbon bar steel recently have been able to promise delivery after three months under priorities rated as low as A-1-C, but on alloy bars no priorities under A-1-A are considered—and delivery is promised in 10 to 25 weeks.

Reporting this today, the magazine Steel pointed to the growing use of alloy steel. Twice as much is expected to be made this year as in the best peacetime year.

"More efficient distribution of steel and iron products is being achieved under war production board regulations and enlarged production is making for a better situation in many products," the review summarized.

With nationwide ingot production remaining at 99 per cent of capacity last week, district rates were computed as Cincinnati 95, up 3½; Youngstown 95, up 1; Detroit 86, down 1; Wheeling 78, down 3½; Pittsburgh unchanged at 95½ and Cleveland unchanged at 94.

HARVEST SHOWS CUT IN WHEAT ACREAGE

Granaries Already Bulging as New Crop Pours In.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 15—Its granaries bulging with wheat which, in peace time, would be streaming across the Atlantic to help feed Europe, the western hemisphere has cut sharply plantings for harvest during the season which begins July 1, grain trade statistics showed today.

Even this emergency measure may prove to be ineffective in lessening the burden of surplus wheat stored in Canada, Argentina and the United States, if the bumper crop of the U. S. now is beginning to harvest is any criterion.

Grain men said, however, that this burdening surplus could quickly become a wartime asset should anything happen to future grain crops or should the European market be opened.

With the estimate of Argentine acreage tentative, inasmuch as that crop is not to be harvested until the first of 1943, Broomhall, British grain trade authority has placed the total acreage in the U. S., Canada and Argentine at only 92,412,900 acres, compared with 102,309,000 in the 1941-42 season, 107,762,000 in 1940-41 and 108,107,000 in 1939-40. Greatest reductions compared with 1939 are in the United States, where this year's seeded acreage was 15 per cent smaller, and in Canada, where plantings are down 20 per cent.

The new U. S. crop, first western hemisphere harvest of the new season, promises to be substantially larger than domestic requirements, despite the fact that acreage was the smallest in years. The recent estimate suggested total production of about 868,000,000 bushels, compared with normal home needs of about 700,000,000. Thus, unless there is found an outlet not now in sight, the surplus to be carried over when the season ends June 30, 1943, will be even larger than that which now is causing a serious grain storage crisis.

No estimates of the Canadian harvest are yet available since the crop there is just getting started, but the acreage is small although the moisture situation is generally favorable. In Argentina severe drought is delaying seeding of the new crop and a sharp cut in acreage is possible.

Grain trade estimates of present surplus stocks of old wheat in the three countries totaled 1,278,000,000 bushels compared with 1,066,100,000 a year ago.

Flag Day Observed Throughout Ohio

By The Associated Press

In a week-end of parading and saluting, Ohioans paid honor to the flag of their country and to the nations with which America is allied in war.

It was a two-day celebration of Flag day and MacArthur day —and Ohio put on a good show.

The greatest was in Columbus, where some 15,000 persons marched in the biggest parade ever seen in the city. Officials estimated that upward of 100,000 saw the marchers.

Cleveland had its parade Saturday. Spectators applauded a group of Chinese carrying the flag of their land, and to the hammer and sickle emblem of the Soviet Republics. Cincinnati held its parade yesterday, with the massing of colors in front of the court house.

At Tiffin, Milo J. Warner of Toledo, former national commander of the American Legion, asserted in a speech that "while we must look ahead to the future and the winning of the peace," we must first win the war."

Union chieftains stressed national unity and exhorted workers to boost war production at a victory rally of some 1,000 members of the CIO, AFL and Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen at Youngstown.

At Hamilton a new 55-foot flagpole at the High street courthouse entrance was dedicated and a flag, 10 by 14 feet, was raised.

Panama's imports of 12,549,845 gallons of gasoline last year were the largest in the history of the republic.

Film producer Darryl Zanuck, above, has been identified in reports from American sources as the colonel in the U. S. Signal Corps who accompanied the British Commandoes on their recent raid on the occupied French coast near Boulogne.

Resume Negotiations in Cincinnati Dispute

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, June 15—Principals in a dispute which last Thursday caused a walkout of about 700 gas division employes of the Cincinnati Gas & Electric Co., early today agreed to resume negotiations, and all employes were asked to return to work pending settlement.

John King of Washington, representative of the department of labor's conciliation service, said he understood workers would be back on the jobs today.

The agreement, King said, provides for negotiation of a demand by Local 12049 of District 50, United Mine Workers, for a 12.5 per cent wage increase of hourly scales ranging from 68 cents to $1.08. Any new scale negotiated would be retroactive to June 7, when the company's old contract with the local expired.

WPB Begins Changeover in System of Priorities

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 15 — American industry entered a new twilight period of government controls today as the war production board pressed its changeover from simple priorities to a program of direct allocation.

• Principal instrument being used under the program is the production requirements plan, through which priorities are assigned for limited amounts of material during each calendar quarter. Allocation will be based more and more on the end use of manufacturer's products rather than previously assigned ratings.

An interim procedure will be in effect during the third quarter of this year while WPB straightens the kinks out of the plan, and existing preference ratings will be continued for small producers, fabricators, companies, mines, smelters and refiners of basic metals, and others. Much tighter controls will become operative in the fourth quarter.

Tribe Ends Eastern Tour, Split with A's; Reds, Dodgers Divide Two

Red Ruffing Equals McGinnity's Old Gotham Record.

By The Associated Press

The Cleveland Indians returned home from the east today with a record of seven victories and seven defeats for their 13-day tour which included three night contests and two double-headers.

They ended their eastern trip in Philadelphia yesterday where they split a twin bill with the Athletics, Al Smith winning the opener 5 to 3, and rookie Red Embree losing the second, 3 to 1.

Balancing their situation as they rested today the Tribe found them still in third place, exactly where they were when the tour began June 2.

Two regulars were out of the games yesterday with minor injuries. Utility infielder Oscar Grimes took Kenny Keltner's post at third base, and Buster Mills worked Jeff Heath's garden, left field. Grimes got two hits, including a double, out of seven chances, and Mills hit three out of eight.

Besides the name of Joe McGinnity on the list of Gotham's greatest pitchers, they wrote another one today—Charles Herbert Ruffing of the world champion New York Yankees.

Racks Up 251st Win

Charley the Red, winner of more games than any hurler active in the major leagues, chalked up the 251st victory of his 19-year career yesterday to tie the mark left by McGinnity, who often pitched, and sometimes won, doubleheaders for the New York Giants in the early years of John McGraw.

In ten games this year, Ruffing has pitched 83 innings and has gone the distance seven times. He has wielded 69 hits while striking out 39 batters and issuing only 16 bases on balls.

Yesterday he tossed a five-hitter at the St. Louis Browns, the team that had beaten him twice before in his only reversals for 1942. He pitched the Yankees to a 6-1 victory in the first game and Ernie Bonham finished with a 5-4 decision in the second.

Joe Gordon singled in the opener to stretch his string to 29 consecutive games, but went hitless in the nightcap.

The second-place Boston Red Sox took a pair of close ones from Detroit, 3-2 in the regulation distance and 2-1 in 11 innings.

White Sox Win Two

The Chicago White Sox vacated the American league cellar and turned it over to Washington by crushing the Senators, 9-3 and 11-4. Ted Lyons pitched his fourth victory of the season in the opener, the 249th of his career.

That all-important long home stand of the Cincinnati Reds is ended, and after 16 games here the Redlegs are a game farther from first place.

The Reds divided a double-header with Brooklyn yesterday, losing the opener, 4-1, and taking the nightcap, 2-1, while the second biggest crowd of the season, 26,772 fans, watched.

Winning 10 of 16 games here raised the Redlegs from a tie for fourth to third, but it still left them 10½ games out of first place.

Yesterday's twin bill—all that the weather allowed of what was to have been a four-game series with the Dodgers — was a pitching show. Bald Whitlow Wyatt held the spotlight in the opener by hurling three-hit ball at Bucky Walters and the Reds; while old Ray Starr spooned the Dodgers similar medicine in the nightcap, allowing only four safeties. Wyatt's hurling job ended Walter's string of six victories in a row.

Reds To Play Exhibition

The Reds, enroute to Boston, stop at Albany today for a twilight game with that Eastern league club.

The split cost the Dodgers a full game on their lead since the St. Louis Cardinals downed the Philadelphia Phils twice, 9-1 and 6-5.

The New York Giants snapped Pittsburgh's seven-game winning streak, 4-2, but the Pirates bounced back to win the nightcap, 8-3.

Another streak ended for the Boston Braves, who downed the Chicago Cubs, 10-1, for their first victory in 13 games after the Cubs had won the first half of the double bill, 8-6.

Snatches of Sports

NEW YORK, June 15—After seeing the latest reports on the Hale America tournament, this corner has come around to the idea that the brass hats knew what they were doing when they canceled this year's regular championships. By junking the traditional tournaments and all their rules, they have been able to whoop it up for one big event that will bring in some real dough for the USO and navy relief. It also provided an opening to issue invitations to several players who missed out in qualifying but who always are popular with the fans.

Monday Matinee — Dolph Camilli, father of five children, has been chosen as "the outstanding father in sports for 1942". What's the matter with that Can-Am league umpire who has 23? Milton Berle, the comedian, has bought the four-horse stable of Tom Stevens, who was stranded in California when the Santa Anita meeting was chancelled. Earl Stewart Jr. of Louisiana State, who will defend his national inter-collegiate golf title at Notre Dame next week, started playing the game when he was four years old but claims he didn't begin to get good until he was nine. Ray Brownell of Stanford, last year's runnerup, didn't start until he was eight. No wonder he couldn't win. When Johnny Addie, the golden-voiced fight announcer at the Bronx Coliseum, couldn't get the fans attention the other night, he started to sing the Star Spangled Banner.

THE MARION STAR

Old Guard Forms Ranks Again

Hale America Opener Attracts Stars of Yesteryear to Golfing Front.

Wide World Features

CHICAGO — The Old Guard competition involving the standout stars of the late 'teens and '20s probably will hold greater interest for the country's links enthusiasts than the actual battle for first place in the Hale America National Open.

It'll be a rare sight for those on hand at Ridgemoor course in Chicago June 18-21 to see Bobby Jones, Chick Evans, Walter Hagen, Gene Sarazen, Jock Hutchinson and the others jousting again.

Top money of $1,000 likely will go to one of today's scoring sensations but those old-sters, so far as competitive golf goes, will be shooting the works for the scroll that goes to victor in the Old Guard division.

The tournament, whose net proceeds will be divided between the Navy Relief society and the USO, brings Jones out of retirement. Since he scored his grand slam in 1930 Bob has limited his active play to his own Augusta Masters' event. He's never been in the money there, chiefly because he wasn't tournament-tough, didn't have the touch around the greens.

Sarazen, still a feared battler when dough is on the line, probably will pace the oldsters but Jones may not be far behind and may outscore all the others. His 67-71-67 in the qualifying rounds at Atlanta speak for his current scoring ability.

Another who has come out of retirement for this 72-hole medal play benefit event is Jock Hutchinson, who just a quarter of a century ago won a similar Open Patriotic Tournament at Philadelphia in 1917. Jock turned in a fine score of 292 to lead his field by seven strokes. He'll be the only player, from that tournament who'll play here.

Most of today's professional and amateur stars, some of them on furlough from the Army or Navy, will compete, with Sam Parks, former Open Champion, Jimmy Hines, Porky Oliver, Ray Billows, Walter Klein and Johnny Farrell, another former Open king, among the more conspicious absentees.

Plans for Annual Lions Club Casting Tourney Announced

Rules for the annual Lions club casting tournament to be held at McKinley park lake Wednesday were announced today by Bob Cunningham and Ray Balderson, tournament chairmen.

There will be two divisions, one for youths of 18 years of age or under, and the other for men over 18. Each division will have four events, bait casting for accuracy, fly casting for accuracy, casting for distance.

Rules for the four events will be the same in both divisions.

Following are the rules for bait casting for accuracy event in which five-eighths ounce plugs will be used:

Targets will be 30-inch bicycle tires painted red, white, blue, yellow and black, anchored at random distances from the casting box, ranging from 40 to 80 feet. As the name of each contestant is called he will take his place in the box and cast at each of the five targets in the order designated by the clerk. After all contestants have cast their first round, a second round will be cast with the targets called in reverse order.

This event will be scored on a demerit system as follows:

For each foot or fraction of a foot the plug falls outside the tire, one demerit will be given. If the plug strikes the edge of the target or falls inside, it will be scored "0"; a miss of three feet will be marked "3", and so on. The total number of demerits for the 10 casts, subtracted from 100 will constitute a contestant's tournament score for the event. High score will win.

For the fly casting for accuracy event, the following will prevail:

The five targets will be strung out on a straight line from the casting box, with the first ring at 35 feet and the last one at 55 feet, five feet apart from center to center. The caster will extend enough line to reach the first target, will call "score" and make the cast at the first ring. He will repeat with a second cast at the first ring, then strip off what he thinks will reach the second target, lift the line, make his backcast and shoot at the second target. He will repeat the cast to the second target and continue to the third, repeating the process until he has had two tries at each of the five targets. The same system of scoring will be used as in the bait casting event, with an additional demerit if any backcast touches the ground.

In the bait casting for distance event each contestant will make three casts and will be rated by the longest cast. No leaders will be permitted.

In the fly casting event for distance each contestant will make three casts and will be rated by the longest. The sponsors state that in this event as many false casts may be made as are necessary, but a backcast that touches the ground will disqualify the forward cast.

In addition to the tournament which will observe "Let's Go Fishing" week, the Lions club will offer a silver trophy for the largest black bass caught during 1942 in Marion county waters. The club has named the J. C. Turner store at 143 East Center street as the place where all fish entered for the cup must be weighed and officially recorded.

Tournament prizes will be fishing equipment. No registration fee will be charged. Contestants must furnish their own casting equipment and may furnish their own fly, barb removed, for the fly casting events. Official five-eighths plugs will be furnished for bait casting events.

LITTLE, MANGRUM TOP FIELD OF SIXTEEN TO WIN INVERNESS

Sam Byrd and Henry Picard Finish Second; Stars in Hale America.

By The Associated Press

TOLEDO, O., June 15—Sixteen top-flight golf professionals headed for Chicago and the weekend's Hale America event today after splitting a $7,650 purse in the eighth annual Inverness four-ball matches in which Lawson Little and Lloyd Mangrum grabbed first prize of $2,358.33.

Mangrum and Little distanced the field with a plus 14 score in the 126 holes of best-ball match play, winding up far ahead of the plus 8 with which Henry Picard and Sam Byrd copped second place place and $1,383.33.

Byrd and Picard skyrocketed into the runner-up spot with a nine-up victory over Jimmy Hines and Herman Barron in the final round—the most one-sided match in the tournament's history.

Here's how the other teams finished, with their winnings, in the round-robin chase:

Herman Keiser and Chandler Harper, plus 6, $950; Byron Nelson and Jimmy Thomson, plus 5, $908.33; Jimmy Demaret and Ben Hogan, plus 3, $700; E. J. Harrison and Denny Shute, minus 5, $550; Horton Smith and Chick Harbert, minus 14, $150; Jimmy Hines and Herman Barron, minus 13, $350.

The Thomson-Nelson and Little-Mangrum combinations divided $250 for scoring the most birdies on the 126 holes—42 each—while the same combinations, along with Byrd-Picard, split another $250 for having the best-ball rounds of 62—nine under par.

Hogan and Demaret, the defending kings, finished in a fourth-place tie, but Hogan kept the lead among the year's money winners with $10,298.

CARL WATROUS—JOE ROBY

Jimmy Foxx Likely To Miss All-Star Contest This Year

JIMMY FOXX

NEW YORK — For the first time in the 10-year history of baseball's annual major league All-star game the familiar apple-cheeked face of Jimmy Foxx probably will be missing this year.

Hard-hitting old Double-X is the only player in either league who has been a squad member for each of the previous contests of stars. He's played in seven of the nine games and has a .316 batting average.

But he recently was waived out of the American league and, as a little-used newcomer on the Chicago Cubs, it is unlikely that National league pilots will choose him.

Joe McCarthy of the Yankees and Leo Durocher of the Dodgers will be the rival pilots for the game at New York July 6. And, with these teams making a runaway of the races the squads will be heavy with Yankees and Dodger players. The winning team will play a service team in Cleveland July 7.

Late in June managers will send in their votes and the squads will be named. As a general rule experienced players are selected over younger performers who may be in the middle of a good streak.

COLUMBUS DEFEATED TWICE BY ST. PAUL

Double Win Boosts Saints Out of Cellar.

By The Associated Press

St. Paul is out of the American association cellar today—hoisted out literally on a shoestring.

It was the only club to sweep a double-header Sunday, beating Columbus, 3-2, and 7-6. The twin killing put the Saints just four percentage points out of the cellar and pushed Toledo, which divided with Minneapolis, into last place.

The Millers downed Toledo, 7-2, but lost the nightcap, 4-1. Charley Wensloff registered his eighth win of the season for Kansas City as the Blues cracked Louisville, 5-2, in the first half of a twin bill but the Colonels copped the second encounter, 2-1.

Another masterful twirling chore was hung up by Pete Naktenis, who won his sixth victory by hurling Milwaukee to a 3-2 win over Indianapolis. The Brewers lost the first game by the same score.

Dayton Hurler Flings 2-Hitter as Ducks Win

By The Associated Press

DAYTON, O., June 15 — Two bits of classical pitching sparkled in last night's Mid-Atlantic performances.

Rollie Marquardt turned in a two-hit masterpiece here as his Dayton Ducks whipped the Charleston Senators 1 to 0 after winning a free-slugging curtain raiser 10 to 2. Marquardt fanned 11 men during his tour.

At Zanesville, Dan Brainhard of the Cubs set down the Canton Terriers with three hits to win the tail end of a double-header 2 to 1. Canton won the opener 3 to 0.

The Springfield game at Erie was postponed.

The accident was witnessed by the child's parents and Arthur and Donald Reed. They told police that she ran directly in front of a car driven by Barney Medellin while the group were standing in the yard of the Beach home. Mr. Beach tried to signal Medellin, but failed to make him understand. She was knocked over by the machine which passed over her body.

Treated in the office of a local physician, she was not considered in a serious condition and was later taken to her home.

Medellin was exonerated of any blame for the accident, police said.

American Heroes Return Japanese Medals by Bombs

NEW YORK — Thirty-four years ago the U. S. battle fleet visited Japan and two sailors on the USS Connecticut — Master Rigger Henry Vormstein of Lakeview, N. Y., and Shipwright John B. Laurey of Brooklyn—received medals from the emperor of Japan.

Early this year Vormstein and Laurey sent the medals to Navy Secretary Knox asking that they be returned to Tokyo—attached to a bomb.

Today the Third Naval district released an official letter to Master Rigger Vormstein, now working at the Brooklyn Navy Yard. It said:

"Through the courtesy of the war department your Japanese medal and a similar medal turned in for shipment by Shipwright John B. Laurey were returned to his royal highness the emperor of Japan on 18 April 1942.

"I am informed by the secretary of war that the medals, attached to a 500-pound bomb, were delivered at Tokyo on 18 April 1942 by lieut. Ted W. Lawson, U. S. army, with appropriate ceremony.

"(Signed) Frank Knox."

Laurey is now at Pearl Harbor, having volunteered on the first call for civilian workers to repair damage done by the Japanese.

OHIO SOLDIER CITED BY GEN. MACARTHUR

Named for Award in Pacific Battle Area.

By The Associated Press

GREENFIELD, O., June 15—Weeks of anxiety over the welfare of their soldier son, Woodrow, were ended today for Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ravenscraft, farmers residing six miles south of here.

They learned yesterday that Gen. Douglas MacArthur had named the 28-year-old private for one of the first soldier's medal awards in the Southern Pacific battle area.

"That is good news," exclaimed the soldier's sister, Betty, when informed that her brother not only was safe but had been cited for gallantry. It was the family's first word of Woodrow in weeks.

Medals were given Ravenscraft and First Lieut. Edward Hubbard of the medical corps, whose home is in Petersborough, N. H.

Their bravery was displayed March 22 when a flying boat transporting military personnel upset and began sinking as it landed in shark-infested waters at an Australian port. Hubbard smashed a window, crawled onto a wing, and then returned into the submerged plane twice to rescue enlisted men.

Ravenscraft freed a fellow soldier pinned down by a machine gun. Then, out on the wing, Ravenscraft was dragged under water by another rescued soldier. He fought free and regained the wing, together with the soldier.

The Ohio hero, graduate of Greenfield High school, entered service with a field artillery unit last November. He has a brother, Wallace, who also is in the armed service.

When asked if she didn't object to giving up her leisure time for [illegible] Miss [illegible] replied quickly, "When the Armistice was signed I was only old enough to be glad for the half day's vacation. In this war I'm going to DO something."

The spontaneity of this woman worker was carried over in the eagerness of Elmer Long, local supervisor of defense training, who deplored the fact that the only reason the shop is not running 24 hours a day is lack of students. "Of course," he said, "we realize that most of those who are interested in taking the course are those who already work during the daytime."

Classes in welding, both electric and acetylene, run from 4 p. m. to 10 p. m. Monday through Friday, with an eight hour shift on Saturday and seven on Sunday. The same schedule is used by the machine shop. A full course in either of the two welding classes or in machine shop runs for three months, although many of the trainees have secured jobs and dropped out before the full term ended.

Women Take Jobs

From the small group of women who have taken the course the majority have been workers from the local garment factories who are desirous of war work employment in case of shortage of clothing manufacturing. Already two of them, Grace Kitchen and Juanita Kemp, have gone into defense work in Galion factories.

A government inspector at a vault company, Stanley Wilson, is also using his free time in the machine shop.

STOCKS SHOW SLIGHT MOVE

Dealings Slow and Trends Uncertain in Today's Market.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 15—Stocks swung over a narrow orbit in today's market with few strong or weak spots appearing.

The trend direction was foggy and dealings slow. Fractional minus and plus signs were pretty evenly divided.

Many potential buyers who felt the list was in a better technical condition, inclined to hang back pending more conclusive war developments, brokers said.

Among stocks occasional gains were pinned on Anaconda, U. S. Steel, General Motors, Goodrich, Standard Oil (NJ), North American and United Aircraft.

Early laggards included American Telephone, Santa Fe, Bethlehem, Sears Roebuck, General Electric, Du Pont and U. S. Rubber.

Stocks of utility companies on the Atlantic seaboard attracted some attention on predictions the office of price administration might provide compensatory relief for those concerns that are suffering from the war-time increase in bituminous coal transportation costs.

WHEAT PRICES RISE IN EARLY DEALINGS

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 15 — Wheat prices rose almost a cent, rye near 2 cents and soybeans even more than that during early dealings in the futures market today but a subsequent reaction wiped out much or all of the gains.

Reports of wet weather delays to wheat harvest in the southwest, of lend-lease purchases of rye flour for Russia and of government plans to reduce the 1943 wheat acreage were bullish factors. Soybean buyers were stimulated by the fact that the loan rate on farms is higher than current prices. Later, scattered profit-taking and hedging sales caused the reaction.

Speculation Arises Over Bomber Landings

By The Associated Press

LONDON, June 15 — Official silence which cloaked the mission of four United States bombers reported forced down last Friday in Turkey tended to confirm the belief expressed in many quarters here today that the United States has opened a new air front in the Eastern Mediterranean to blast the Axis from the rear.

Observers said if the bombers had been on a routine ferry flight to Russia, India or China a quick announcement of their purpose probably would have been forthcoming.

These sources said the reports that each of the big bombers had a full crew also seemed to preclude the ferry theory and supported speculation that the planes were operating from a United Nations air base for attacks against Germany in the Balkans and perhaps on the southern Russian front.

NOISE APLENTY

MIDLAND ARMY FLYING SCHOOL, Texas—If all the practice bombs stored in the "dump" at this world's largest bombardier college were dropped at the same time, the tonnage would be 17 times greater than that dropped by the British in their recent devastating raid on the Nazi port of Rostock. No estimate is available on noise.

"Aw—do I have to wear that?"

Recently we read a very interesting article in a national magazine. It was written by a man who has become unusually successful through his keen understanding of human nature. One part was devoted to his childhood days and the writer explained in great detail the mental strain that he endured, simply because his mother made him wear a "sissy" hat.

That was back in what was known as the "Elegant Eighties"—but circumstances aren't so different today. Youngsters still detest wearing things the know their friends and playmates will "vote thumbs down." They love to have things that other children have.

Here's one thing you can do to avoid having your child become self-conscious. Go through the juvenile clothing ads in this paper with your boy or girl—let them know just how much cash is available for their things. You'll be surprised how cooperative they can be. We doubt if you'll be bothered any longer with the question —"Aw—do I have to wear that?"

After removal of the gallbladder [illegible] the stored [illegible] and really takes the place of the gallbladder in forming a reservoir.

The bile is discharged into the intestine when fat is present and plays an important part in the digestion of fat. It also plays a very important part in our well-being.

I remember one eminent surgeon who had a gallbladder operation after which his bile did not flow into the intestine for several weeks. He described a sense of melancholy that settled on him, a lack of interest in any meal and the delight which he experienced when the bile finally did begin to flow out and he began to digest his fats.

Another moot point about gallbladder physiology is whether it empties its contents more or less passively or by contraction of its own muscles. The concensus of opinion at the present time is that it empties by contraction of its muscles in the presence of fat in the intestine. Thus we can empty a gallbladder by giving a fat meal, such as the yolk of an egg or a well-buttered piece of toast, and this fact is helpful in the treatment of certain forms of gallbladder infection.

It is interesting to note that in pregnant animals the gallbladder does not empty very readily even with the presence of fat in the intestine. This has significance in view of the fact that pregnancy often precipitates an infection of the gallbladder and gallstones, probably due to the fact that the stasis of the bile during this period renders infection easy.

"Oh no, no!" she said tremulously. "I've said everything I could think of and while he is kindness and gentleness itself he is positively adamant. If he turns you down too I don't want to be around."

I was relieved at her decision. Although I had no real hope of changing Harry Underwood's mind I knew I could paint Lillian's distress more eloquently and think of cogent arguments against his going more readily if he were not with us.

DALE, WHO KNOWS MORE THAN FLASH SUSPECTS, TURNS TO RODAN FOR COMFORT
LIKE A RAT, THE KILLER, PIGOR, KNOWS EVERY HIDING-PLACE IN THE MINE. VICIOUSLY, HE WATCHES THE MAN-HUNT, BIDING HIS TIME FOR REVENGE ON FLASH

NO INSECT SHALL ENTER YOUR GARDEN AND LIVE
WELL, YOU MAY BE GOOD AT KEEPING INSECTS OUT OF GARDENS BUT YOU'RE SURE LETTING 'EM INTO A HOUSE

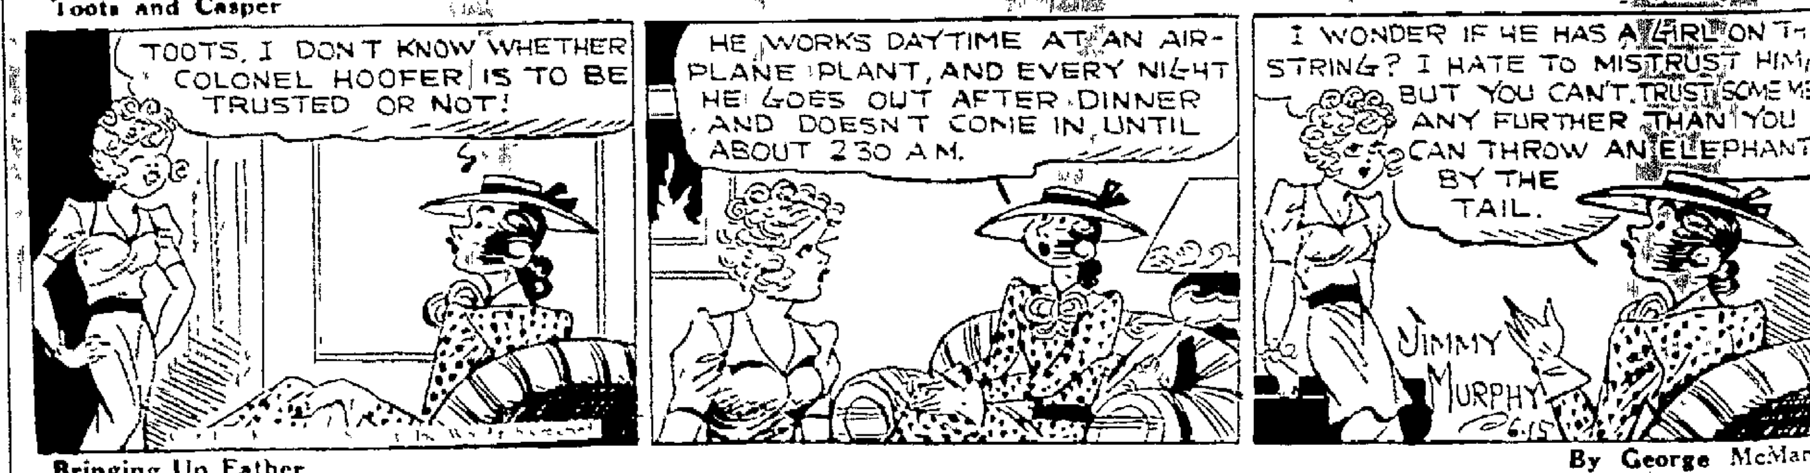
Toots and Casper

By Jimmy Murphy



TOOTS, I DON'T KNOW WHETHER COLONEL HOOFER IS TO BE TRUSTED OR NOT!
HE WORKS DAYTIME AT AN AIRPLANE PLANT, AND EVERY NIGHT HE GOES OUT AFTER DINNER AND DOESN'T COME IN UNTIL ABOUT 2:30 A.M.
I WONDER IF HE HAS A GIRL ON THE STRING? I HATE TO MISTRUST HIM, BUT YOU CAN'T TRUST SOME MEN ANY FURTHER THAN YOU CAN THROW AN ELEPHANT BY THE TAIL.

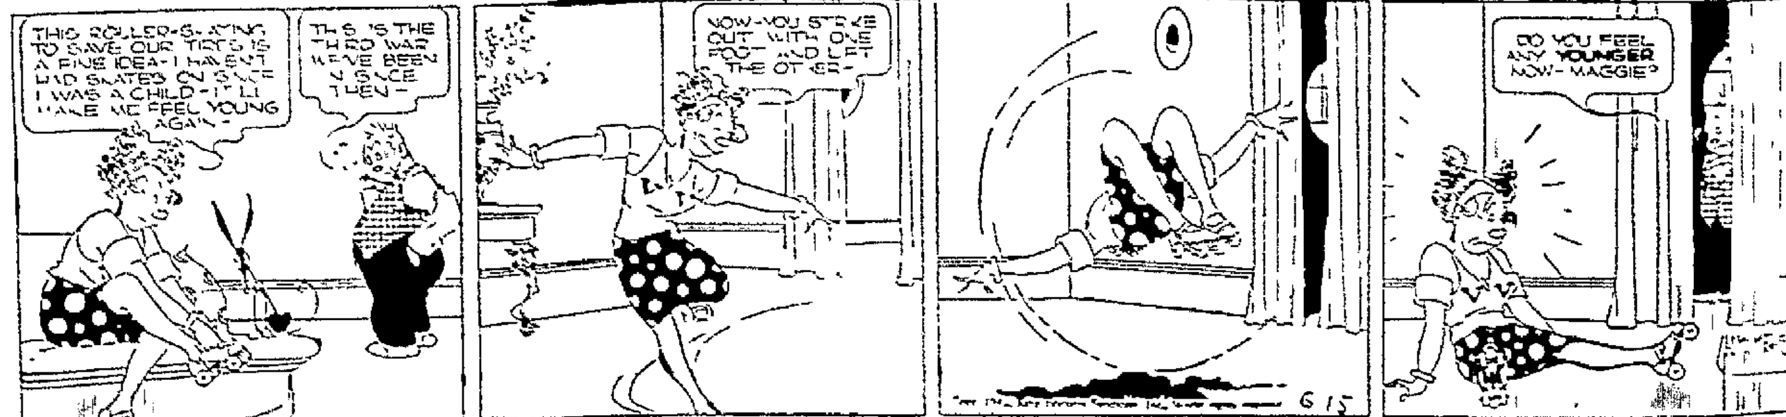
Bringing Up Father

By George McManus



THIS ROLLER-SKATING TO SAVE OUR TIRES IS A FINE IDEA—I HAVEN'T HAD SKATES ON SINCE I WAS A CHILD—IT'LL MAKE ME FEEL YOUNG AGAIN—
THIS IS THE THIRD WAR WE'VE BEEN IN SINCE THEN—
NOW—YOU STRIKE OUT WITH ONE FOOT AND LET THE OTHER—
DO YOU FEEL ANY YOUNGER NOW—MAGGIE?

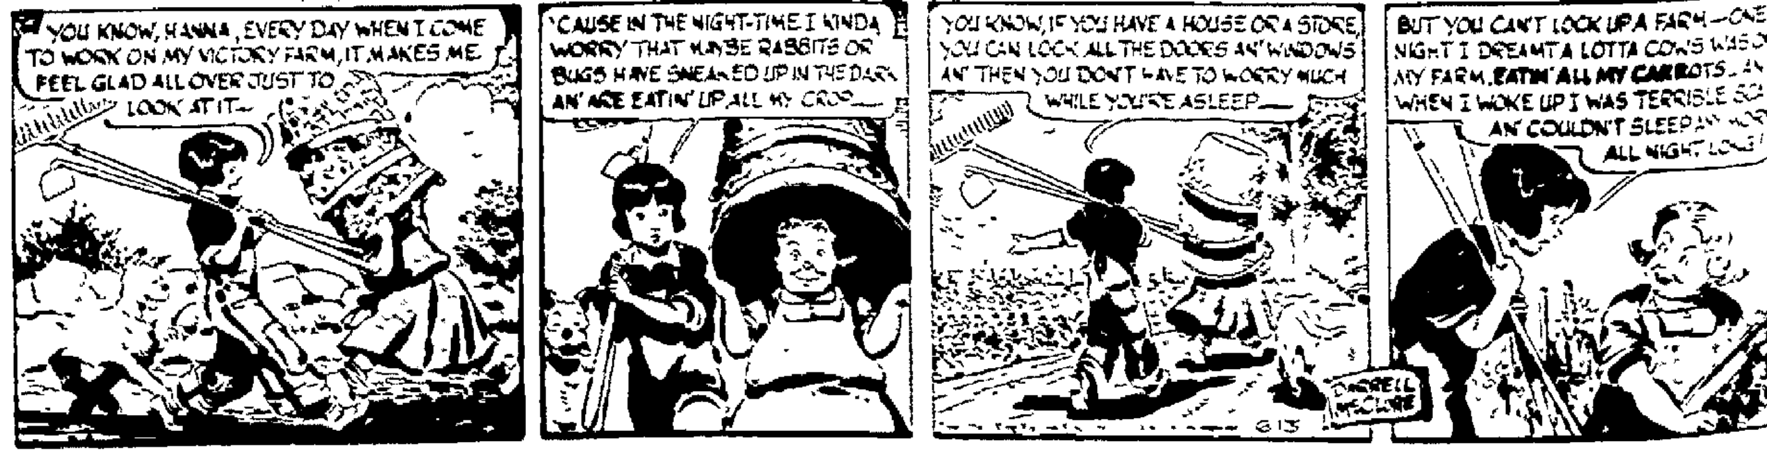
Annie Rooney

By Brandon Walsh



YOU KNOW, HANNA, EVERY DAY WHEN I COME TO WORK ON MY VICTORY FARM, IT MAKES ME FEEL GLAD ALL OVER JUST TO LOOK AT IT—
'CAUSE IN THE NIGHT-TIME I KINDA WORRY THAT MAYBE RABBITS OR BUGS HAVE SNEAKED UP IN THE DARK AN' ARE EATIN' UP ALL MY CROP—
YOU KNOW, IF YOU HAVE A HOUSE OR A STORE, YOU CAN LOCK ALL THE DOORS AN' WINDOWS AN' THEN YOU DON'T HAVE TO WORRY MUCH WHILE YOU'RE ASLEEP—
BUT YOU CAN'T LOCK UP A FARM—ONE NIGHT I DREAMT A LOTTA COWS WAS ON MY FARM, EATIN' ALL MY CARROTS—AN' WHEN I WOKE UP I WAS TERRIBLE SCARED AN' COULDN'T SLEEP ANY MORE ALL NIGHT LONG!
